The World's Good News. Why Cancel? Rockefeller and McCooey. Ladies, Many Kinds.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THIS IS the world's big news today:

France and Germany have reached an agreement about debts and reparations. After 1935, which gives them three years to get ready, Germany will issue bonds for three billion gold marks, about seven hundred and fifty million dollars. The bonds will be issued at 90 and come due in 37 years, amortized at the rate of one per cent a year.

When the news was published, German "dollar bonds" in Wall Street jumped up suddenly. This is good news for the world in general. The sooner that war is paid for and forgotten the better for everybody.

SENATOR SHIPSTEAD, a thoughtful man from the North, offers a Senate resolution proposing cancellation of Europe's debts to us, if the nations agree to progressive disarmament.

Progressive disarmament by all means, provided this country is kept always in readiness for any unexpected attack. But WHY debt cancellation?

After Europe has paid her war debts she will be less inclined to start another war. A burnt child dreads the fire. But not an imitation electric fire that does not burn.

JOHN H. McCOOEY, leader of the Democratic party in Brooklyn, says conditions are improving. Various indications prove it, including the Williamsburg bridge connecting Brooklyn and Manhattan, now crowded with trucks carrying merchandise, the trucks more numerous, more heavily loaded than they were recently.

Mr. McCooey, who for 50 years has been an important man in New York, says:

"There is no better security than a New York City bond."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, who was 93 years old yesterday, also believes in prosperity's return. When you play golf with him, Mr. Rockefeller concentrates on every shot, never misses the ball completely, never slices into the rough.

He makes it his business to do what he undertakes to do. If the length of a drive disappoints him he turns to you and says:

"I am not discouraged."

Mr. Rockefeller isn't discouraged in business either. On his birthday he tells the public:

"For ninety-three years of my life depressions have come and gone. Prosperity has always returned and will again."

This country is sound, says Mr. Rockefeller, its fundamental principles being "liberty, unselfish devotion to the common good, and belief in God."

May you be as optimistic, when you reach the age of ninety-three.

LADIES OF THE Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, voting to support Gov. Roosevelt for President, include able women, whose husbands' names are known everywhere.

Other women, many millions of them, live in small villages and towns, on farms and in city tenements, their husbands' names known to nobody. They also will have a good deal to say about the election.

ON BIG ROCKS along the Anasquam shore in New England somebody has carved in big letters the words:

"Prosperity follows service."

Mrs. Adams, widow of a distinguished architect and descendant of Nathaniel Webster, objects. She believes that Roger Babson, who makes a specialty of prosperity, engraved the motto on the rocks, and wants it stopped because it is out of date.

Ex-service men will agree with her, particularly those that have been visiting Washington. They do not find that "prosperity follows service."

JAMES MATTERN and Bennet Griffin, trying to set a new 'round-the-world record, landed in a fog on the Polish border and went on to Moscow by train.

It is better to fail than never to try. These two fliers established a new world's record for a flight across the ocean. That is enough glory for one flight.

FLORIDA'S STATE Chamber of Commerce, G. G. Ware, president; R. G. Grassfield, general manager, says our officials—national, state and local—are spending too rapidly money they haven't got.

The public pays the salaries to hundreds of thousands of unnecessary employes, while our various forms of government spend at the rate of nearly THIRTEEN THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

Figures supplied by the Florida Chamber of Commerce show that within 25 years national government has increased its spending by 730 per cent, state government by 900 per cent, city and local governments by 645 per cent. The one national problem is to stop government waste and extravagance.

IN LOS ANGELES movie stars have given tax authorities lists of their taxable property. Charlie Chaplin is at the top with $7,687,570 taxable. Mary Pickford comes next and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, third.

They do not list untaxable property. If you do a thing well you can be well off even in a depression.

THE ENGLISH are worried about the low birth rate, due partly to birth control agitation. In 1876 the British birth rate was 36.3 per thousand. It is down to 15.3 now.

Unforgotten

MRS. OPAL LOGAN KUNZ

Mrs. Kunz, aviatrix and tireless organizer of the Betsy Ross Legion, banded women fliers forsworn to defend the U. S., unforgotten in the will of Dr. George F. Kunz, jewel expert. Their marriage annulled in 1930, she's now to receive the major share of a $500,000 estate.

OLD HOME HAILS ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 9.—(INS.)—Back in his own home for the first time since he became Democracy's presidential candidate, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today was to be accorded a rousing welcome by his old friends and neighbors who started him on his political career 22 years ago.

Residents of Dutchess, Putnam and Columbia counties, comprising the Twenty-eighth State Senatorial District, which Roosevelt represented in the Legislature as a young man, planned to bestow fitting honors upon him as the Democratic party's national standard bearer.

John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, who nominated the Governor for his first political office, and who proposed him for the presidency at Chicago, was scheduled to play a leading role in the festivities.

Within an hour after he arrived here by motor last evening from Albany, Gov. Roosevelt was standing on the lawn of a backroad farm speaking informally to the monthly meeting of the Roosevelt Home Club.

Free Albert Capone In Cicero Bombing

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP.)—Albert Capone, who has two brothers in federal prison, kept his own escutcheon clear yesterday with a dismissal in Cicero Police Court.

Disorderly conduct charges against the third of the Capone quartet were dropped, the Cicero police chief testifying there was no evidence linking him with the recent bombing of the home of Mayor Joseph G. Cerny, of Cicero.

Fliers Feared Lost In Tropical Storm

MEXICO CITY, July 9.—(INS.)—A widespread search was under way today for two American aviators believed to have perished in a tropical storm south of Rinconantonio, on the Isthums of Tedhuantepec.

The fliers, Clarence I. McElroy, of Medaryville, Ind., and Roy Gordon, of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, flew into the storm June 27 and have not been reported since.

New Record Low For Steel Orders

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of United States Steel Corporation decreased 142,394 tons in June to a total of 2,034,768 tons. This was the fifteenth consecutive monthly decrease and established another record low since the corporation has been reporting unfilled business.

TWO WORLD FLIERS MAY CONTINUE

Hurts Slight, Hope to Repair Ship, They Say Via Phone

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 9.—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, American round-the-world fliers whose adventure failed when they were forced down into a peat bog near Borisov, Russia, Thursday morning, are coming to Moscow tomorrow, they told me over a shaky telephone line from Borisov today.

They said they would decide after reaching Moscow whether they will continue their flight around the world or return to the United States by way of Europe.

INJURIES MINOR

It was their first contact with an American since they landed at the remote Russian town at 4 a. m., Thursday, and damaged their plane, the "Century of Progress," in the soft muck of the bog. They said:

"Neither of us was hurt except for a few scratches. We are coming to Moscow tomorrow by train and are shipping parts of our plane there for repairs."

It was a conversation under excruciating difficulties. For over 24 hours it had not been possible to get a call through from Moscow to Borisov. When the connection was finally established it was impossible for the fliers to hear me, or vice versa.

DOUBLE TRANSLATION

So the conversation had to be carried on through orators acting as relays, and this made it necessary to translate from English into Russian and again into English, both ways, from me to them and from them to me. The airmen went on:

"Technical difficulties with the controls of the plane forced us to land. Then the plane turned over as we came down in the bog.

"We're both all right, but very sorry we failed in our effort to

Court Ruling to Stay Sentence of Curtis

FLEMINGTON, N. J., July 9.—(INS.)—If sentence is imposed Monday, as scheduled, on John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk (Va.) shipbuilder, convicted of obstructing the investigation into the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, its execution will be stayed, his lawyers said today.

Such stay, they declared, would automatically result from the action of the Supreme Court in granting a writ of error in Curtis' case, which enables an appeal to the higher courts.

Dry Squad Breaks Doors, Raiding Club

Federal prohibition agents smashed their way into two clubs last night. Two steel and wood doors were demolished when they entered the Piccadilly Club on second and third floors, 417 Boulevard of the Allies.

Next the squad visited 1022 Fifth avenue. The bartender, the agents said, leaped out a second story rear window. In both places the raiders reported chasing out several patrons and seizing intoxicants.

British Act For U. S. Debt Cut

By LINTON WELLS
Universal Service.

LONDON, July 9.—Acting on press dispatches from Washington indicating the American government would lend a polite ear to the pleas of her debtor nations, the British government moved swiftly today to obtain reduction or cancellation of her war debt to the United States.

The ground work was laid at Lausanne where, prior to signing of the reparations treaty, Great Britain proposed a moratorium on all European war debts.

This proposal was construed not only as accelerating ratification of the Lausanne treaty but also paving the way for complete reconsideration of war debts at the economic conference scheduled to be held in October at a place suitable to the United States.

Despite the fact no official advices concerning America's attitude as a result of the Lausanne settlement have been received through diplomatic channels, British officials accepted the press reports from Washington as conclusive evidence that America would now listen to the pleas of

SALVAGE SHIPS JOIN 'SUB' HUNT

CHERBOURG, July 9.—(AP.)—The Italian salvage ships Artiglio and Rosto prepared today to attempt what many experts considered the almost impossible—the salvage of the sunken French submarine Promethee and the rescue of her crew, if any of them is alive.

The two salvage ships, upon arrival, proceeded directly to the arsenal to take on equipment for the rescue attempt.

Vice Admiral Le Do, chief of the maritime prefecture, said this morning it would be a most difficult task, as at the depth (the submarine is lying about 245 feet below the surface) the divers will be working in pitch darkness. He continued:

"But we will first try to pass chains around the hull to permit the use of lifting gear and it might also be possible to drag the submarine to shallower water."

Oxygen Tent Sent To Save Duesenberg

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 9.—(AP.)—An oxygen tent was rushed here from Pittsburgh last night in an attempt to save the life of Fred Duesenberg, Indianapolis automobile manufacturer.

Duesenberg, admitted to a Johnstown hospital last week after an automobile accident near here, developed pneumonia and physicians reported his condition as critical.

Dreiser in Auto Crashes 4-Ton Block

SOMERVILLE, N. J., July 9.—(AP.)—Theodore Dreiser, author, narrowly escaped injury yesterday when he lost control of his automobile and it ran through a fence, struck a house, displaced a four-ton concrete block and was wrecked against a tree.

The writer said another automobile cut in front of him and caused him to lose control. He said he would pay for the damage.

ERRORS COST TAXPAYERS $190,000

Allegheny Boulevard Blocked, West End Span Unusable

Errors in planning by the county engineering department under the former administration will cost the taxpayers approximately $190,000 in interest and maintenance charges on the West End Bridge and the Allegheny River boulevard, parts of which have been completed but not opened.

The main span of the West End Bridge will have stood on stilts for almost 20 months, virtually complete but unusable without approaches, while interest and maintenance charges pile up on the investment to the tune of about $150,000.

INTEREST LOSS HEAVY

The Allegheny River boulevard has been built to two dead ends on either side of the property of the Pennsylvania Water Company at Nadine. It is reported an agreement is to be reached next week with the water company, but to date opening of the road to full traffic has been delayed seven months with a loss in interest estimated at $40,000.

Considering the main spans of the West End Bridge separately, the foundation and superstructure were practically completed and were paid for by September 1, 1931. The amount actually paid out by the county for physical work on the main par of the bridge to contractors amounted to $1,336,100.

Adding 10 per cent for engineering and approximately $200,000 from property damages on the direct approach to the main span, the total county investment completed ahead of time was about $1,669,710.

CITY GETS BLAME

At 5 per cent interest for 20 months, the result is $139,142, to which must be added maintenance charges such as watchmen, operation of navigation lights and a charge for repainting. The total loss to the county is approximately $150,000.

The bridge approach contract, let to the R. H. Cunningham Company .s due to be completed in May, 1933. The contractor is making good progress and is expected to be through ahead of time, which would cut down the county's interest loss.

Proper planning, it is declared, would have avoided a start on the main span of the bridge until work on the complicated approach in the West End was well started. County employes declare that much valuable time was lost in wrangling with the city on whether Carson street should be repaved with reclipped or new block stone.

LANG DENIES CHARGE

City Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has denied that the city caused any delay in the project. The city is paying most of the property damage along Carson street and for some of the physical work of the bridge approach.

In the Allegheny River boulevard the county has built a roadway which was entirely blocked about one-third of the way from one end through inability to condemn a right-of-way through the plant of a public utility.

The upper end of this road is receiving some use but it is conservative to say the entire road is not carrying more than one-half the traffic that it would if completely opened. On this basis, one-half of 5 per cent on the county's present investment of $2,700,000 in the boulevard for seven months is approximately $40,000.

Cuba's Secret Service Chief, 2 Others Slain

HAVANA, July 9.—(INS.)—A group of assassins using a submachine gun today murdered Capt. Miguel Calvo, chief of the Cuban secret service, his chauffeur and a detective as they were driving past the Maine monument on the famous Malecon sea drive.

Capt. Calvo, who has been active recently in rounding up revolutionary suspects, was killed outright. The chauffeur, named Cardenas, and the detective, La Rosa, died a short while after the shooting.

Dazed at Fatal Hour

LIBBY HOLMAN . . . TELLS JURY HER STORY FROM HER BED

The Widow Reynolds, Broadway's tear-voiced torch-singer, who from her bed in the fatal mansion at Winston-Salem told the coroner's jury that she was in a daze, remembers little of the 48-hour period in which her husband, Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old tobacco prince, met his death by gun. He was to have inherited $15,000,000.

RICHARD J. REYNOLDS

Mr. Reynolds, older brother of the slain Smith, today speeding back to the U. S., abandoning his African yachting after communicating with the family.

Arrests Promised Sunday Audiences

TOWANDA, Pa., July 9.—(AP.)—In an effort to stop the showing of Sunday movies at Canton, near here, District Attorney William M. Rosenfield announced that he would cause the arrest of those who attend if the practice continued.

George H. Bubb, theater proprietor, has been arrested under the blue laws and fined the usual $4 on several Monday mornings. When that failed to stop the shows, more drastic action was demanded by influential residents.

WOMEN LEAVE TO JOIN B. E. F.

Three women and three children were among a group of bonus veterans and sympathizers which left by automobile today to join the bonus-waiters encamped at Washington.

Included in the party were Mrs. Herbert Kendall, 79 Wabash avenue; her sons, Robert, 7, and Herbert, 10; Mrs. William Rafferty and her daughter, Dorothy, 13; J. Murphy, 1928 Carey way; Mrs. G. Huey, 5445 Penn avenue, who flew to the capital several weeks ago and returned; William Neidemeir, of Pittsburgh, and E. C. Pease, of Ashtabula, O.

On her way to their East Liberty starting point, Mrs. Kendall lost a bag containing clothing and silverware.

Fares Paid, Bonus Vets Start Homeward Rush

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP.)—Hundreds of World War veterans today took advantage of the opportunity to "ride the cushions" homeward over the long miles they hitch-hiked and "bummed" their way to Washington weeks ago to press their demands on Congress for payment of the bonus.

By the time the ink was dry on President Hoover's signature yesterday to the bill for lending the "bonus marchers" $100,000 for transportation home and food en route, disappointed recruits to the bonus-seeking ranks fell in line at the veterans' administration offices and sought to muster out.

More than 600 had applied when the offices closed at midnight; approximately a third that number were passed upon favorably, and many immediately set out for home. Others were in line when the offices opened this morning.

Despite the lure of comfortable rides home and the increasing food shortage in the camps, leaders of the "army" hoped to confine the departures to a comparatively few hundred. Walter W. Waters, commander, admitted his belief that "some veterans" would take advantage of the opportunity but continued to urge the men to remain until Congress meets their demands.

DEAD HEIR'S WIFE TELLS OF 'DAZE'

Mind Blank, Asserts Libby Holman in Shooting Quiz

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 9.—Ab Walker, chum of Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, was held in custody today as a material witness in connection with the death of his friend.

Meanwhile, the secret inquest into Reynolds' death was resumed behind locked doors at the palatial Reynolds estate.

Walker was secretly taken to jail following his testimony before a Coroner's jury regarding the party at the Reynolds estate and events leading up to the finding of young Reynolds' body on a sleeping porch with a bullet through the head.

Permission was later given him to spend the night at a local hotel guarded by two deputy sheriffs. Walker left the jail accompanied by Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, sisters of Smith Reynolds.

ATTORNEY AIDS

An attorney for the brother of Smith, Richard J. Reynolds, also accompanied the boy.

Richard Reynolds, who was cruising on a yacht off Africa when the tragedy to his younger brother occurred, was said to have communicated with members of his family here regarding the death of Smith. He was reported speeding back to the United States.

The testimony of Walker before the Coroner's jury yesterday was not made public.

It was Walker who accompanied young Reynolds on several night parties away from home. On July 4, he and Smith stayed away all night from their homes.

Walker told Coroner W. N. Dalton that Smith had a gun and had given him another one. The Coroner said a gun was found in the drawer of Walker's guest room. The gun owned by Reynolds was found beside the body.

Walker, according to his own story, was the first to reach Smith after a shot was heard at 1:15 a. m., July 6.

With the testimony of Mrs. Smith Reynolds, formerly Libby Holman, Broadway singer, furnishing little aid to authorities, the inquest into the death of the

Two Ships Collide, Passengers Safe

AMSTERDAM, July 9.—(INS.)—The British channel steamer Malines, with 131 passengers aboard, today collided in the River Scheldt with the Danzig motor vessel Hanseat and was beached. The passengers and crew were safely transferred to the steamer Vienna and taken to Antwerp.

Lydia Pinkham Descendant to Wed

SALEM, Mass., July 9.—(AP.)—The engagement of Karl J. E. Gove, great-grandson of the late Lydia Pinkham, and an heir to the Pinkham fortune, and Miss Dorothy Hartwell, of Lynn, was announced today.

GARNER JOINS M'FADDEN MOVE FOR TREASURY INQUIRY

SPEAKER MEETS CHALLENGE OF G. O. P. CHIEF

Failure to Collect Millions Laid to Revenue Bureau

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A broad investigation of the Treasury, the Federal Reserve System and the National Banking Department may be voted by the House Rules Committee as the result of a sudden climax in the fight of Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania for the inquiry.

The proposed investigation was indorsed by Speaker Garner after he had been challenged by Acting Republican Leader Michener, of Michigan, on his statement that he had declined to approve it on patriotic grounds.

Both Garner and Representative O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, of the rules committee, predicted the committee would report out a resolution and ask the House to vote Monday.

BUREAU ACCUSED

Charges by McFadden that the Bureau of Internal Revenue has failed to collect hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes. Alleged dealings of the Federal Reserve Banks with international bankers and foreign banks and other charges of laxity in the administration of the nation's finances are expected to form the basis of the inquiry.

Garner himself urged Congress last year to inquire into the tax refunds made by the Treasury.

The plan of Democratic leaders was to prepare their own resolution of inquiry, probably directing the Banking Committee to undertake it during the summer congressional recess.

SEEKS BROAD INQUIRY

While McFadden's resolutions were directed at the Federal Reserve and alleged laxity in tax collections, Garner said an inquiry should be more comprehensive and include the Comptroller of the Currency as well as all Treasury and Federal Reserve dealings. He declared:

"I assume that our brethren on the Republican side were in good faith in saying that they want an investigation.

"I refrained from coming out for it for patriotic reasons. I think more of my country than any partisan advantage.

"But when I am challenged by the assistant Republican leader and my good faith is impugned, I accept the challenge."

Garner had explained that if conditions were as charged, the faith of the people might be shaken in their government, and that he wished to avoid the charge of seeking political capital.

During the debate on the floor late yesterday, when McFadden pressed his demand, Acting Republican Leader Michener declared Garner was taking the position of assuming there is corruption and not investigating it.

Asked by Garner if he would support the inquiry, Michener said that as an individual he would.

MARIETTA FIRE LOSS $500,000

MARIETTA, O., July 9.—(AP.)—Two buildings were destroyed last night by fire which for a time threatened Marietta's business section. Total damage was estimated by officials at $500,000. Seven firemen were injured slightly.

Firemen from Parkersburg and Williamstown, W. Va., aided in fighting the blaze, which started in the wholesale department of the Union Hardware Company.

Damage at the Union Building was placed at $200,000. The flames then engulfed the Huff-Chevrolet sales rooms, causing a loss of $75,000.

Prizes Broken, Golf Star Wins Divorce

TULSA, Okla., July 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Patricia Beyer, trans-Mississippi woman's golf champion, was granted a divorce from Dr. Walter Beyer in District Court here yesterday. She charged the physician had broken her golf trophies and cursed her. They were married five years ago.

beat the round-the-world record. We were forced down just after we thought we had completed the most difficult part of the trip, and we were making excellent time.

HOPE FOR REPAIR

"Even then we would have been all right if the soft ground hadn't caused the ship to turn over. As it is, the plane is not very seriously damaged and we think we can repair it.

"We spent all day yesterday disassembling and packing the motor, and we are freighting the damaged parts to Moscow in the hope it can be repaired there so we won't have to abandon the ship. We are going back to Minsk this evening for our luggage, and we will take the express train from there, arriving in Moscow tomorrow evening."

The fliers said they spent last night in the only hotel in Borisov. It is small, but they said they were comfortable and added they were faring well under the care of Soviet Civil Aviation Society representatives sent from Moscow to assist them.

At this point the connection, wobbly to begin with, broke down entirely.

Illinois $5 Mine Pay Scale Agreed

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP.)—The wage scale conference of Illinois coal operators and United Mine Workers agreed yesterday on a basic wage of $5 a day.

Resumption of mining in the Illinois fields, shut down since the expiration of the old $6.10 scale March 31, now hinges on ratification of the union membership.

N. Y. Broker Held In Cuba Revolution

NEW YORK, July 9.—(INS.)—Accused of aiding in the revolutionary activities of Cuba last year, Arthur Hoffman, 42, broker, was held today under $2,000 bail.

He was arrested at the request of the Department of Justice in Washington under laws prohibiting conspiracy to foment a revolt in a foreign country.

New Sewers Held Needed in Dormont

Replacement of all sewers in Dormont Borough will be necessary within two years because the present outlets are too small, President Daniel Daugherty declared last night at a meeting of Dormont Council. He said a $50,000 bond issue would be necessary.

A new contract with the Duquesne Light Company reducing the candle power of street lights and saving the borough $2,300 was agreed to by Council. A resolution providing for a new radio police car was also passed.

COAL CONTROL BILL SHELVED

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP.)—Representative Clyde Kelly last night announced he and Senator James J. Davis had abandoned attempts to have their coal stabilization bill passed in the present session.

Kelly added that in view of a Senate Mining subcommittee's report on the measure yesterday he and Davis would try to have a revised bill enacted at the session starting in December.

Three reports were given the Senate by the three members of the subcommittee. Davis favored adoption of the bill with amendments to provide for appeal from the proposed coal commission to the Circuit Court of Appeals, prohibit the commission from establishing distribution zones or marketing areas, and eliminate a section providing for control of potential production by control of rail connections at new mines.

Senator Hatfield (Rep.), of West Virginia, opposed the bill and the principle of government regulation of the industry, upon which it was based. Kelly introduced a bill containing the amendments several weeks ago in the House. He hopes to have the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee start hearings early in the December session.

TOBACCO HEIR'S CHUM HELD AS WITNESS

20-year-old heir to $20,000,000 was to be continued today.

WIDOW IN DAZE

The widow of the tobacco prince testified that she had been in a daze for almost 48 hours covering the period in which young Reynolds was found shot through the temple across the bed of his sleeping porch.

She offered no explanation for the protracted period of mental unconsciousness except to state that it was the first time in her life that it had happened. She testified:

"I retired at the usual hour, 11 o'clock, on Monday night, July 4 (the night before the party which culminated in the finding of the body of Reynolds).

"I do not remember a single occurrence of the entire day and night of Tuesday (July 5, the party night) with the exception of a flash when Smith called my name—Libby.

"I saw a gun in his hand and he fell.

"I do not remember anything until Wednesday night, the next night, when I woke up and found found myself in bed."

PRIVATE INQUEST

The inquest was a private hearing held in the mansion on the Reynolds estate "Reynolda."

With the Coroner's jury seated around her bed to which she has been confined since the shooting, Mrs. Reynolds testified that she had not suffered any accident during this period of mental oblivion, that she had not been drinking, and that she had taken no medicine which might have caused such a condition. She said:

"I am unable to account for my memory being a blank."

She didn't remember going to the hospital in her bathing suit after Walker, and Blanche Yurka, her friend, also a house guest, responded to the sound of a shot and the scream of Mrs. Reynolds.

She reiterated that nothing like this mental lapse had ever occurred in her life before.

Mrs. Reynolds was very nervous when questioned. County Solicitor Carlisle Higgins was forced to pause in his queries from time to time in order that the witness might compose herself.

The inquest followed the funeral of Smith Reynolds which his widow attended on the arms of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holman, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Reynolds returned to bed immediately after the burial services.

Walker, Blanche Yurka and Dr. Fred Hanes, the latter having attended young Reynolds at the hospital, were other witnesses examined.

The testimony of these three witnesses was not divulged. Solicitor Higgins asserted:

"Every person who was at the Reynolds house on the night of the shooting will be questioned."

Marsh, Hagmaier Speak on Relief

With Benjamin C. Marsh, of Washington, secretary of the People's Lobby, and Representative Louis W. Hagmaier, of Aspinwall, as the speakers, the second outdoor forum was held in West Park, North Side, last night, under the auspices of the League for Social Justice. Sidney A. Teller, of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, presided.

The topic was, "Is Government Meeting the Needs of the Hour?" Marsh took the national phase, and Hagmaier spoke on state relief needs.

BRITAIN MOVES FOR DEBT CUT

CONGRESS OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(INS.)—The United States is ready to talk war debt reductions individually with European debtors, but there is little likelihood of any settlements prior to early December, just before the next payments are due.

Comprehensive preliminary negotiations will have to ensue before any concrete proposals are submitted, officials felt, and any change in the amount of war debt payments must be approved by Congress.

A cut in the war debts owed this country comparable to the reparations reductions agreed on at Lausanne would slash the debts from their present total of $11,000,000,000 down to slightly above $1,000,000,000. Congress is on record as opposed to any revision or reduction of the debts, and any such move will inevitably run into stiff opposition on Capitol Hill.

Powers Sign New Reparations Pact

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 9.—(AP.)—The Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations was officially declared closed today, after representatives of the principal powers had formally initialed the agreement to scale Germany's reparations bill down from the original $64,000,000,000 to approximately $712,500,000.

This amounts to about one cent on the dollar. It is planned to ask the United States to join in a parley to revise war debts.

The initialing ceremony was held in the Beau Rivage Hotel where most of the sessions of the conference took place. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, whose tenacity was credited with having brought about the agreement, presided.

MacDonald himself was the first to use the gold pen on the document that represents one of the largest financial settlements in history.

He was followed by Premier Renkin, Paul Hymans and Emile Francqui, for Belgium, Sir John Simon, representing the British dominions, Antonio Mosconi, for Italy, Premier Herriot, M. Germain-Martin, for France, August Zaleski, for Poland, Ambassador Shigeru Yoshida, for Japan, and Chancellor von Papen, Ambassador von Neurath and Count Schwerin von Krosick, for Germany.

Two committees were created before the conference adjourned. The first committee was to deal with non-German reparations. M. Theunis, of Belgium, was named its chairman. M. Bonnett, of France, was elected chairman of the second committee, which is to deal with Danubian problems.

Sir John Simon and M. Germain-Martin read statements suspending the intra-European war debts until the new agreement is ratified by national parliaments. This statement was made at the behest of the Italian delegation.

After the conference was officially closed the delegates drank a toast to world prosperity.

HOOVER'S VETO AWAITS BILL FOR RELIEF

Measure to Legalize Beer Temporarily Sidetracked

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP.)—A presidential veto message that Republican leaders were told already had been written today awaited Congress' last action on the $2,122,000,000 relief bill.

Chieftains in both parties were agreed before the Senate took up the conference report that there were enough votes to adopt it despite some Democratic objections and a last-minute decision by G. O. P. heads to ballot against the measure.

Presentation of this conference report in the Senate for the time being sidetracked two other issues—bills to expand the currency and to legalize beer of higher alcoholic content.

BOTH SIDETRACKED

The beer bill by Senator Bingham (Rep., of Connecticut, temporarily was displaced by Senator Glass' (Dem.), of Virginia, proposal for currency expansion. Senator Borah, Idaho Independent Republican, offered the Glass bill as a substitute to a vote. But both were set aside awaiting disposition of the relief measure.

Borah, supporting the Glass proposal, which would give circulation privileges to government bonds, insistetd there is "no escape from chaos unless the government stays the fall of commodity prices."

Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, replied that already "we have more currency than we need."

DRY PROBLEMS

Two other prohibition problems were pending—a motion by Senator Barbour (Rep.), of New Jersey, to bring up his bill for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and a petition to Speaker Garner from House Republicans asking an opportunity to vote on the legalization of beer. The House was in recess today, so there was no possibility of action there until Monday or later.

On the relief issue, Senate Democrats who opposed it had tried unavailingly to get their vice presidential candidate — Speaker Garner—to retreat from his demand that federal loans be made to individuals. They submitted to a party conference Garner's insistence upon his position.

TO AID GARNER

Most of the Democrats, however, had indicated they would support Garner. Republicans expected departures from their ranks to help put the bill through. Many held that Senate rejection of the conference report simply would tie relief legislation up in another parliamentary knot, while its acceptance would let President Hoover veto it quickly and a substitute be expedited.

This substitute, they agreed, would conform more nearly to Mr. Hoover's idea that borrowers from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should be connected with self-liquidating projects of a public character.

The President's veto message, Senate Republicans were advised, would be sent to Congress as soon as the bill reached the White House.

COUNTY BUDGET BALANCE SEEN

With the county budget believed balanced, statisticians today were compiling the figures to report at the Commissioners' meeting Tuesday.

Based on incomplete figures, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern yesterday said there will be saving of more than $1,500,000 in payroll cuts for the year. The revised budget figures, including bond accounts, will make the total expenditures nearly $3,000,000 less than last year, McGovern said.

The Controller's figures show $179,649.69 cash saved in salaries and wages; an increase in miscellaneous services, which include court costs, professional services, light, heat and other services, of $256,173.59, and a $161,300.85 decrease in open market purchases of materials, while contracts for building improvements and construction in the county parks are $154,374.40 less than last year.

Reynolds' Widow to Lose Riches if No Heir Is Born

BALTIMORE, July 9.—(INS.)—Any chance Libby Holman may have had of inheriting the Reynolds tobacco millions appeared to have faded when a bullet ended her youthful husband's life.

The possibility remained today that if she should have a child, the child will unquestionably inherit the $15,000,000 held in trust for Z. Smith Reynolds, according to the terms of the will of R. J. Reynolds, which disposed of $60,000,000.

The Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of this city, has charge of the four trust funds created from this vast estate for the benefit of the four Reynolds children. These funds amount to $15,000,000 each and none of the children obtains the principal until he or she has attained the age of 28.

In the event that Libby Holman does not have a child, the assumption is that Z. Smith Reynolds' child by his first wife, the former Ann Cannon, might inherit, though there is an obstacle to be surmounted there according to general understanding, which is that in consideration of a $1,000,000 settlement the first Mrs. Reynolds relinquished all claims against him.

Under the terms of the will Smith, who was only 20 years old at the time of his death, was to remain in the joint guardianship of W. N. Reynolds, an uncle, and E. B. Lasiter until he was 21 years old. From that time until his twenty-eighth birthday, he was to receive $50,000 a year from the fund and on his twenty-eighth birthday the whole $15,000,000 would go to him.

Dempsey on Stage Tour Asks 'Thespian' Title

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Jack Dempsey is cavorting in back of footlights once again.

The ex-champion of the heavies opened in an act here yesterday, teamed with Miss Lina Basquette. The tour that has been arranged will swing them around the continent and eventually carry them on to the Atlantic seaboard.

Dempsey had a request. It was:

"I wish you would refer to me as a thespian this time. Not so many people know what that means. If you say I'm an actor everybody knows what that means and right away they want me to prove it."

Dempsey said he was through promoting battles—"for quite a while anyway." Also that he would not do very much more refereeing. As to fighting:

"Well, I'll wait until somebody challenges me."

Asked whether he was going to give up his Reno residence and resume Los Angeles as the home address, he said:

"I don't suppose I'll be around Reno very much from now on and my business enterprises are located in and around Los Angeles."

FINEST POSTAL BUILDING HERE, BROWN SAYS

Heath Tells of Big Contract on Way; Stone Placed

Government officials joined with Pittsburgh civic and public leaders in cornerstone ceremonies at the new postoffice building yesterday as 500 persons crowded the narrow space available at the Grant street site.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath were the principal speakers. Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, which directed the program, was chairman.

Brown declared the postal building will be one of the finest in the country. He outlined the modern features, including facilities for 22 railroad mail cars on the lower floor.

Heath said the project was part of $24,000,000 federal building program in Pennsylvania. Within a month, he announced, contracts will be let for $6,000,000 additional work and a short time later $1,750,000 will be added.

James Francis Burke laid the stone. In the audience were former Gov. John S. Fisher, members of City Council, Postmaster James B. Anderson and State Senator Frank J. Harris.

HUTTON BALM SUIT VERDICT DUE SOON

Nurse's Case Goes to Jury Today; Death Threat Sent

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(AP.)—Myrtle St. Pierre, attractive brunette nurse, may know before the day is over the jury's verdict in her $200,000 breach of promise suit against David Hutton, choir singer, for his alleged jilting of her to marry Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson. Only the instructions to the jury by Superior Judge Lester W. Roth remained before the jury began its deliberations.

The special Saturday session of court found both principals in the case, the courtroom and defense counsel under special guard.

Willedd Andrews, attorney for Hutton, reported to police he had received threats of death over the telephone. He said a voice told him over the telephone:

"You have talked too much. We have just killed Roy Watkins. We got him and you are next with Mark Jones and the other fellow."

Police were inclined to believe the threat was the work of a fanatic, although they were unable to get in touch with Watkins, a private investigator of Angelus Temple, of which Mrs. Hutton is pastor. He was reported at his home to be out of town. The "Mark Jones and the other fellow" referred to are other defense attorneys.

PREDICT MORE FURLOUGHS ON CITY PAYROLL

Council Plans Survey For Economy and Kline Reprisal

Further furloughs of city employes in all departments are in the offing because of the shrunken tax revenues for 1932, it was learned from a reliable source at City Hall today.

Aside from the financial factor, the recent firing of police and firemen by Mayor Charles H. Kline and Public Safety Director James M. Clark for political purposes has so annoyed Council that a survey of all department personnel is contemplated.

Although no Councilman would be quoted, it was asserted a survey of all departments would be asked to determine how many employes are working and how many are "deadwood."

The contemplated action is considered by many as Council's reprisal for the attempt to blame the dismissals of police and firemen on the city lawmakers. In letters of dismissal to the men, Safety Director Clark told them his hand was forced by Council's action. The councilmen in reply pointed out that they had appropriated enough money in the pension funds to care for all who had to be let go, and outright dismissals were not necessary.

AWAIT APPEAL ACTION

Dismissed police and firemen were still waiting today for action in their fight for re-instatement through the Civil Service Commission. Appeals charging they were ousted for political reasons have been on file since Tuesday.

The meeting of the commission, scheduled yesterday, was postponed at the last minute because Dr. Samuel H. Johnson, brother-in-law of Mayor Kline, was called on an emergency case. The other members, Dr. F. H. Frederick and Attorney J. Howard Devlin, were ready for the meeting, which was postponed until early next week, according to Secretary Thomas Hansberry.

LIST NOT REVEALED

Another hope, that Council at its meeting yesterday would inquire concerning the list of dismissed officers requested from Clark, also fizzled when no mention was made of it.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, counsel for the dismissed men, and John Heinz, head of the Firemen's Protective Association, said no action will be announced until the commission has had an opportunity to review the situation.

2 YOUTHS HELD FOR QUIZ

Two youths, arrested by Sharpsburg police early today after an alleged stolen automobile in which they were riding ran out of gasoline in Main street, were held for questioning in connection with a series of robberies in the Sharpsburg district.

Police said a small tear gas gun, a quantity of extra gas shells, a bag of bullets, flashlight and large bolt cutter were found in the machine, which was reported stolen from Harry D. Shaffer, of Grant street. An extra set of license plates issued to Harry F. Zinn, of Irwin avenue, also were found, police reported.

The youths gave their names as Edward A. Torpik, 24, of 228 Ophelia street, and Charles Billings, alias Charles Moyer, 24, of 111 South Nineteenth street.

Mary Astor's Baby Joins Film Colony

SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 9.—(AP.)—Hollywood's colony of infant film celebrities has gained a new member with the arrival here of Maryln Hauoli Thrope, 3-weeks-old daughter of Mary Astor, film star, and Dr Franklin Thorpe.

The baby was born in Honolulu. She returned with her parents on Dr. Thorpe's yacht, the Henrietta.

The actress said she expected to renew her career in films.

PUMP STATION DEDICATED

City councilmen and other officials with their friends yesterday attended the dedication of the Brilliant pumping station, the largest installation of motor horsepower for a municipal waterworks plant in the country. The plant, in operation since May, cost approximately $900,000.

James H. Kennon, managing engineer, Bureau of Water, was the dedication chairman. Addresses were made by Director Edward G. Lang, Department of Public Works; Council President John S. Herron, Councilmen W. Y. English, Robert Garland and Harry A. Little, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, welfare director, and other officials. The Rev. Theodore E. Miller, of the First Baptist Church, delivered the invocation, and the Rev. Philip A. Callery, of St. Lawrence Roman Catholic Church, gave the benediction.

Morgan, Ankle Only Sprained, to Sail

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—The ankle injury suffered last week by J. P. Morgan at his Long Island estate was only a sprain, it was learned today, and the financier is proceeding with plans to sail for his annual European trip late next week.

The injury was so slight that Mr. Morgan left his estate during the day and came into New York on a business trip.

Name Marion Davies Among 13 Leaders Of Film Art

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—(INS.)—Greta Garbo is one of the 13 most glamorous women the screen has ever known—and so is Marie Dressler.

This was revealed today with announcement of the final results in the nation-wide poll of film critics to determine the women who are, or have been, the most glamorous in the history of the screen.

Named with Garbo and Dressler were Mary Pickford, Theda Bara, Constance Bennett, Gloria Swanson, Marion Davies, the late Barbara La Marr, Ann Harding, Joan Crawford, Marlene Dietrich, Clara Bow and Dolores Del Rio.

More than 100 critics submitted the names of 132 actresses.

After 14 witnesses had testified, Justice of the Peace Ira Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon last night continued the hearing of Joseph Bartha, of Frayne street, accused of embezzling $24,000 from the Verhovay Aid Association.

Bartha was returned to the county jail. Judge F. P. Patterson yesterday denied his release on a writ of habeas corpus after his attorney, George A. Varday, testified Bartha had been given no hearing. Justice of the Peace Edmundson testified the hearing had been delayed at Varady's request.

BANDIT KILLS MARSHAL IN CRIME ORGY

Desperado Still at Large, Vanishes At South Bend

TOLEDO, O., July 9.—(AP.)—Hunted for a wild orgy of crime including one murder, James Wilson, of New York, a dangerous member of a holdup gang, forced a Toledo man and the latter's 9-year-old son to drive him by auto late last night to South Bend, Ind., where he released them and disappeared.

Earlier in the evening, Wilson shot and critically wounded Dr. Martin Larkin, 34, prominent Toledo physician, while police were seeking the gunman for the slaying of Marshal Jay Davis, of North Baltimore, O.

After firing a bullet into Dr. Larkin's jaw and another into his thigh, Wilson reappeared at the residence of John Hova, another Toledoan. The holdup man then forced Hova and the latter's son William, to aid his escape.

PAIR RELEASED

Early today, Hova telephoned home from South Bend that he and the boy had just been released, unharmed. Toledo police were informed Hova later went to Elkhart, Ind.

Marshal Davis was slain at North Baltimore late yesterday when he engaged in a gun battle with Wilson and a youth who gave his name as Bert Storey, 19, of St. Paul, Minn. Storey was wounded probably fatally.

The marshal had been seeking the pair for a holdup and three kidnapings, which they and another man committed Thursday.

DUEL TO DEATH

Determined not to be captured, Wilson and Storey began firing on the marshal almost as soon as he accosted them. Davis, a World War veteran, received six bullet wounds in the exchange, but never stopped returning the fire until his own gun was empty. Then, with a bullet through his heart, he fell dead.

Storey collapsed a moment later but Wilson, seemingly uninjured ran into the street and at the point of his revolver, took possession of an automobile containing three boys, and forced them to drive him to Toledo. They were Francis Bonner, 15, Robert Moore, 17, and his brother, Carl Moore, 22.

Hotly pursued by a posse of citizens, Wilson jumped from the car in the outskirts of Toledo and momentarily disappeared.

PHYSICIAN SHOT

Then, while police were scouring the city for him, the gunman suddenly reappeared in the fashionable West End section, jumped on the running board of Dr. Larkin's automobile, fired two shots, and again escaped when citizens came running to the rescue.

Dr. Larkin, who is the medical director of Mercy Hospital, was given a blood transfusion at a hospital where witnesses of the shooting took him, and fellow physicians said he had a chance to recover.

Garner to Fish, Rest When Congress Quits

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP.)—Hunting, fishing and rest are sending strong siren calls toward Speaker John Garner, with the result that he may succumb to them before beginning his campaign as Democratic vice presidential nominee.

With adjournment of Congress now apparently coming next week, he and Mrs. Garner hope to leave for Uvalde soon and stay there until early August. He said:

"I want to do some fishing, and a few animals are lying around down there to hunt. I want to get away from telegrams, telephone calls and conferences and then I can rest."

SIX ON MISSING BOAT SAFE

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Six amateur seamen in the ketch Curlew sailed safely toward New York today while the coast guard called off one of the biggest sea hunts in recent years.

The Curlew, missing since she sailed June 25 in a race from Montauk, Long Island, toward Bermuda, was spotted last night by the cosat guard patrol boat Marion, 95 miles southeast of Nantucket Island. She was under her own sail and her crew was safe.

Dirty weather apparently prevented the Curlew from reaching Bermuda. Twenty-five other yachts which started with her had reported bad sailing conditions. More than 100 vessels, the naval dirigible Akron and several airplanes had been searching for her.

The craft is owned by David Rosenstein, of New York.

GIRL IN DANCE CONTEST HURT

Laura Raponi, a contestant in the marathon dance at Motor Square Garden, today expected to make a rush visit to an Oakland physician during a rest period for an X-ray of her right elbow to determine whether it was fractured when she fell on the floor a few days ago.

Dr. S. M. Saul, attending the dancers, examined the elbow last night and ordered the X-ray. Miss Raponi is permitted 15-minute rest intervals and if she is away longer she must make up the time.

Thirteen couples and one man are still in the contest, Joseph McCormick dancing alone since his partner, Helen LeMarr, collapsed last night when she neared the 770-hour mark.

Brent Announces Troth To Ruth Chatterton

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—(AP.)—George Brent and Ruth Chatterton will be married as soon as she and Ralph Forbes are divorced, Brent announced here last night.

Forbes has gone to Reno to establish residence. Brent was to leave today for the east on a personal appearance tour. Miss Chatterton, touring Europe, is expected back late in August. Brent said:

"This was all decided before Miss Chatterton left for Europe, but we tried to keep it a secret. We plan marriage but the time and place is a little indefinite because of the divorce."

Thus were contradicted all previous statements of the three principals. When Forbes left for Reno, he said neither he nor Miss Chatterton has any "personal competition." Miss Chatterton was quoted from Spain as saying she had no romance with Brent. Brent's evasions were tantamount to denial.

Six months ago, Brent was engaged as Miss Chatterton's leading man in the picture, "The Rich Are Always with Us." By all accounts, this was the budding of their romance.

Forbes and Miss Chatterton said "incompatibility" would be the basis of the divorce action.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

MULESHOE, Tex., July 9.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Down here at the Mashed O, where my old friends at the Halsell's ranch are branding thousands of calves. I been roping at 'em all day and they just look around and say: go on comedian and do your stuff on the stage but don't try a real cowboy's racket. I'll catch one of the little rascals yet if I have to bribe him.

Will Rogers

Say, I been so interested in real things I just quit reading the papers. What is Congress doing and why did Aimee's husband establish his good name? A rancher just rode out to the roundup and said the happy warrior had decided to leave the war and be happy again. Did you know that hogs went up two dollars a hundred while the two conventions were in session? Make your own joke.

Yours, WILL.

Two Jailed 5 Days On Check Charges

Mrs. Edna Liston, 25, of 206 Stratford avenue, was arrested when she attempted to pass a check for $10 at the Duquesne National Bank. She said her husband had not been working for several months and she needed money. Leonard Heasley, 25, of Slippery Rock, was taken into custody at the Pittsburgher Hotel where, detectives testified, he had been living on the proceeds of checks to which he signed his [illegible] name. Each was given five days by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

QUIZ OF BOWSER RESUMED

Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, was to be questioned for the fourth successive day in the county grand jury room today, explaining his books and bank records to Auditor M. C. Conick, in the investigation of Bowser's $200,000 county airport hauling contract which he got on a 60 cent a ton bid and sublet for 12½ cents a ton.

Bowser refused to answer questions in an audit before the County Controller and withheld his books, being upheld by a court decision that the Controller lacked the authority to compel an answer.

George F. P. Langfitt, first assistant district attorney, called Bowser before the grand jury with his books, and he was quizzed for a day. He then agreed to answer the auditor's questions and the grand jury was excused until July 18, when Conick will tell it what his inquiry has revealed.

Walker and Wife Hold Reunion at Hospital

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Mayor Walker and his sick wife had a reunion with camera effects on the roof of the Polyclinic Hospital yesterday.

She was recovering from a serious operation and was attired for the occasion in a new boyish bob and a white and pink dressing gown, embroidered with flowers. He wore a light, gray suit and a Panama hat, smart as always. The cameraman came in an ordinary suit.

Said the Mayor:

"How are you, Ellie?"

Said Mrs. Walker:

"Fine."

Said the cameraman:

"Wheel her around a little."

Said the Mayor:

"Isn't it a little late (lifting an eyebrow) for me to begin wheeling a carriage."

Said the cameraman:

"None of your wisecracks."

That ended the reunion.

PASTOR TO STUDY INTERNATIONAL QUESTIONS ABROAD

DR. J. R. EWERS TO PREPARE FOR FORUM

The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, South Highland avenue and Alder street, tomorrow morning will deliver his last sermon until the middle of September.

With his son, John, 23, graduate student in the anthropology department at Yale University, he will sail for Europe on the Lafayette, July 16. They plan to spend two months in Paris, Geneva and Berlin, studying international questions for the tenth annual Open Forum to be held in the East End Christian Church from October 1 of this year until May 1 of 1933.

TO VISIT GENEVA

Last year the Rev. Ewers visited Italy; two years ago, Russia. This year he will stay a month at Geneva, attending a conference of 300 English students there, becoming a member of the International Club and attending the peace conference. He said:

"Although I am not a pacifist, I am intensely interested in disarmament because economically it is our greatest chance to save money. More than half our income is spent annually in the international race for armaments."

FASCIST STUDY

The Rev. Ewers and his son will make an intensive study of the Fascist movement in Germany, visiting 10 or 15 leading German cities. The intense militaristic nationalism of the movement is a menace to the payment of reparations to the United States, the Rev. Ewers believes.

During his two months absence, laymen in the congregation will conduct services in the East End Christian Church.

CHORUS OF 100 WILL SING AT SERVICES

A choir of more than 100 voices will sing seven anthems at the community services at 23 East End, Shadyside, Oakland and Squirrel Hill churches in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow night. Six church choirs from Homestead, McKeesport and Pittsburgh will comprise the chorus, under the direction of Frederick A. Welty, of the Homestead Presbyterian Church.

Earl Mitchell and Prof. Charles R. Stone will preside at the organ and James B. Meanor at the piano. The Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church, Shady avenue, will preach on "The Spirit of Christ."

Episcopal Parish Picnic Wednesday

The parish council of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, Johnson avenue and Gertrude street, has arranged to hold the annual picnic at the old Stone Manse in South Park, Wednesday.

'Business, Religion' Topic of Sermon

"Business and Religion" is the subject of the 11 a. m. service in the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Butler and Fortieth streets, tomorrow. "The Excellency of Knowledge" is the topic of the evening service.

Pastor to Observe 14th Anniversary

The Rev. Luther P. Spoehr will celebrate his fourteenth anniversary as pastor of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Ridgewood and Center avenue, West View, on Sunday, July 24.

Rabbi Goldenson Selected As Committee Chairman

Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple, Fifth and Morewood avenue, has been appointed chairman of the program committee for the forty-second meeting of the Central Conference of American Rabbis in Cincinnati, November 2 to 6. He is vice president of the Conference.

The featured paper of the program will be read by Rabbi David Lefkowitz, of Dallas, Tex., past president of the Conference, on "The American Principle of the Separation of Church and State in its Application to Modern Life," in commemoration of the Washington Bicentennial.

Rabbi Bernard Bamberger, of Albany, N. Y., will read a paper on "The Beginnings of Modern Jewish Scholarship." Prof. Z. Diesendruck, of the department of philosophy of the Hebrew Union College, will speak on "The Ideal Social Order as Expressed or Implied in Jewish Thinking," and Rabbi Julius Gordon, of St. Louis, will discuss "Personal Piety in Modern Jewish Life."

3 HOURS OF RHYTHM -:- Five Famous Dance Bands on Air

Talking Letters Feature Program; German Band In Network Debut

Three hours of rhythm and jazz by five of the most popular orchestras in the country, is WCAE's offering to dancers tonight. George Olsen and his orchestra provide the musical portion of the cigaret dance hour, with Walter O'Keefe, master of ceremonies, and Bert Lahr, ace comedian, from 10 to 11; Russ Columbo's orchestra is scheduled at 11 for 15 minutes, followed by the WCAE Dance Band at 11:15. Paul Whiteman's Chieftians go on the air at 11:30, Buddy Rogers and his California Cavaliers play from Hotel Pennsylvania at 12:05, and Don Bestor's Hotel New Yorker orchestra is booked from 12:30 to 1 a. m.

Don Bestor

Talking night letters and automatic secretaries are demonstrated by Orestes H. Caldwell during an experimental broadcast over WJAS tonight at 8. By means of the night letter, Caldwell foresees the time when one person may be called to the telephone in the morning and hear the voice of another delivering a message dictated the night before. Through the secretary, Caldwell broadcasts a phone call tonight which he made two weeks ago.

The Little German Band and Herman, Max and Hans, the Bavarian Yodelers and harmony trio, who are heard each week in a broadcast of fun and music from KDKA, present their first program over an NBC network tonight at 6:30. The musical unit specializes in typical German music, with comedy dialogue by the two inimitable funsters, Gus and Heinie. Within the last two years, the organization has traveled more than 6,000 miles, filling theatrical engagements and making personal appearances.

Program Pointers

A varied program of solo and quartet arrangements is presented by a quartet composed of Helen Bell Rush, soprano; Ann Woestehoff, contralto; Malcolm Thomson, tenor, and Adam McNaughton, bass, during the Homey and Old-Fashioned broadcast from KDKA tonight at 10. "Gifts," by Rasbach, and "Long, Long Ago," arranged as soprano and contralto solos, are included on the program. Aneurin Bodycombe is accompanist.

Miss Rush

"East Lynne," the famous old play, with a cast of characters who have had long careers in the theater, is revived on KDKA at 7:45.

The Ionian Quartet, featuring male voices, is starred during the Civic Concert over WCAE tonight at 8.

An all-American program, including works by MacDowell, Nevin, Herbert and Sousa, is presented by Edwin Franko Goldman and his band during the concert from the New York University campus at 9 over KDKA.

Rimsky-Korsakoff's symphonic suite, "Scheherazade," is performed in full as the highlight of the Lewisohn Stadium Concert conducted by Willem van Hoogstraten on WJAS from 8:30 to 10 p. m. Saint-Saens' symphonic poem, "Danse Macabre," also is included on the program.

Floyd Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, and Gus Suhr, first baseman, are interviewed by Paul Coyle, Forbes Field announcer, on WWSW tonight at 6:30. Dr. Charles Jorgensen, trainer, also speaks.

Romantic ballads and tunes of the South, including "Trees," "Lullaby of the Leaves" and "Chloe" comprise the Street Singer's WJAS program tonight at 7:45.

Fan Fare

Mme. Sylvia, NBC beauty expert, is the guest of Vincent Lopez and his orchestra at the St. Regis roof tonight . . The party is in honor of her recent marriage to Edward Leiter, actor and writer. . . . Connie Boswell's favorite occupation is fishing . . . Recently, returning from an afternoon at the sport, she exhibited a string of seven perch. . . . Not to be outdone by their fellow radio performer, Peggy Keenan and Sandra Phillips, the piano duo, went trout fishing over the last week-end and boast of having snared half-a-dozen legal-sized fish.

Mme. Sylvia

The gold wrist watch given to Lanny Ross for winning a race at the famous Penn Relays Carnival when he was at Yale, has been broken beyond repair. He's going to have it framed as a souvenir.

Johnny Marvin fired a boat pilot at his island in the St. Lawrence River for walking off with two expensive fishing rods and extra propeller. Then he felt sorry for him and gave him a letter of reference, saying, "This man can get more out of a boat than anyone else who has ever worked for me."

Welcome Lewis is appealing to her listeners to help her name her new home . . . James Wallington has become a real yachting enthusiast. He just purchased a 45-foot sailing yacht, and spends his week-ends on Long Island Sound . . . Donald Novis, new NBC tenor, who is athletically-inclined, has a busy time exploring the sports facilities of New York. A short time ago he was singing for Pacific Coast listeners . . . Chandler Goldthwaite, organist, was presented with a hat eight years ago by an admirer at an Austrian concert—and has worn it ever since.

American Weekly Features on Air

The numerous articles of interest to all readers, published in the American Weekly Magazine, which is distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph, and in the March of Events section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, are discussed during the "American Weekly" broadcast on WCAE tonight at 7.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. with the latest news flashes.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Events

WEDDING DATE CHOSEN

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

August is not to be outdone by July when it comes to weddings. And to prove it, another bride-to-be has named an August date.

Vivacious Dorinda Kennerly, daughter of the Claude Saugrain Kennerlys, of St. Louis, has decided on August 12 as the date for her marriage to one of Pittsburgh's popular sons, John Kennedy Beeson, now of Cleveland, son of Charles E. Beeson, and brother of Mrs. A. Verner Wasson, both of Morewood avenue.

The wedding will take place in All-Saints-By-the-Sea Episcopal Church, Santa Barbara, Cal. A small reception is to follow in the Kennerly's summer home, La Casita, Santa Barbara.

Their engagement was made known late in April.

Usher at Wedding

Pittsburgh's Mayfair was represented at a wedding in London's Mayfair this week. Paul Mellon, son of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, was one of the ushers. The bride was Coral Pinckard, daughter of the George Pinckards, of Chesterfield street, Mayfair, London, and the bridegroom, the Honorable John Wayland Leslie, son of the late Norman Evelyn Leslie, nineteenth Earl of Rothes and Noel and of Countess Rothes, now Mrs. Claude MacFee, of Culls Stroud, Gloucestershire.

With all of London's Mayfair in attendance, the nuptials took place Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in St. Margaret's, Westminster, with the Rev. E. P. Pelloe, of Chiddingford, officiating. A reception at the Garden Club followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Cherry Pinckard, as maid of honor, and by Elizabeth Darell, the Honorable Lorraine Berry, Joan Eyersmonsell, Diana Boyd-Rochfort and Daphne Lawson, all of London, as bridesmaids.

John Stauntion was best man, and in addition to Paul Mellon, there were five ushers.

The Pinckards with their daughters have visited the United States several times, where they've made many friends. The bridegroom and Mr. Mellon were at Oxford together.

Gotham Marriage Of Interest in Pittsburgh

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Grace Edna Lomax, of Philadelphia, to Charles Harris Kincaid, of New York, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. William H. Kincaid, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized Thursday afternoon in the Second Presbyterian Church, New York. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. George J. Russell, in the presence of the members of the families. There were no attendants.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid will reside in New York.

Visit Summit

Pittsburghers at the Summit Hotel and Country Club recently included Mr. and Mrs. West S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian G. West, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kimble, Miss Amelia Greenwald and H. S. Conrad.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gillespie motored up for a round of golf on Wednesday remaining for dinner in the evening.

Mrs. H. L. Sander, Miss Margaret Sander and Miss Myrtle Ochenga, spent several days there this week, golfing and riding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Riggs were among those registered. Others remaining over the holidays were Mrs. E. Schnebel and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Schnebel; Col. and Mrs. Weaver H. Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dean, of McKees Rocks, are registered for a sojourn.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sands, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McCann and Mr. and Mrs. George J. MacLeod, of Bellevue, and F. R. Cook, H. M. Haverkotte, J. Wilson Garbart, F. E. Carlson, W. C. MacQuown, Curtis M. Harsh and F. C. McFeaters.

Announce Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McDonnell, of Bellefield avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Parthenia McDonnell, to Roland G. Ebert, of Gary, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ebert, of Elwood, Ind., which was solemnized at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, June 30, in the Hotel Schenley.

Miss Estella McDonnell was her sister's maid of honor, and Dr. Francis R. McDonnell, cousin of the bride, the best man. Audrey Byron, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Byron, was flower girl.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin having a court train and a veil of tulle finished with a cap of lace caught with orange blossoms. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley and white orchids.

The maid of honor wore pink silk net with a sash of French blue and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. The flower girl wore gold silk net and carried a basket of delphinium and roses. The bride's mother wore apple green chiffon with a corsage of talisman roses.

After an eastern motor trip, Mr. Ebert and his bride will be at home in Gary, Ind., after July 15.

Well Baby Clinic Opened in March By Wilkinsburg Club Women Is Now 'Going Concern'

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Out in Wilkinsburg last March a movement was started that has grown into what is known as "a going concern." It's the well baby clinic, the success of which is just one more achievement that must be accredited to the women's clubs of the borough. Mrs. Harry Walker, a past president of the Civic Club, originated the idea as a by-product of the local welfare organization's work.

Mrs. Harry Nagle was first to accept the chairmanship, but its duties now devolve upon Mrs. Floyd J. Horrell, her committee including Mrs. Nagle, Mrs. Frank Braddock, Mrs. J. H. McCulloch and Mrs. Harry Walker. The staff includes a public health nurse, a nutritionist, the physician and three volunteers, under the supervision of Mrs. Clare E. Whyte, of the Public Health Nursing Association.

More than 100 babies are enrolled and it is gratifying, to say the least, to note the change from week to week in the physical condition and appearance of these youngsters.

Progress Shown

The clinic is conducted at the Wilkinsburg Bank Building every Wednesday from 9 until 12. Last week only one out of the 60 babies brought in failed to show any progress.

There's a small fund, too, out of which are provided milk and fresh fruits and vegetables for those whose parents cannot afford them. Car fare is also furnished for the parents of any children who are sent to Falk Clinic. All equipment has been donated by individuals, but the clinic is financed by the clubs, among them the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club and the Junior Section, the Civic Club, the Edgewood Cot Club, the Thursday Afternoon and Wednesday Afternoon clubs, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Council of Republican Women and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Girl Scouts held their first day camp yesterday in Mt. Lebanon Park. The day camps have been established this year in an attempt to give every Scout in the county a taste of camp life. Two types of camps will be conducted, the day programs—Fridays at Mt. Lebanon Park and Mondays in Frick Park—and the overnight camp at the Girl Scout House in North Park, but plans will be canceled in the event of rain. Miss Helen A. Baker is directing these new activities.

Egyptian Teacher Visiting Parents

Miss Stauffer

Miss Catharine Stauffer, daughter of Mr. and and J. C. Stauffer, of 927 Broadway, East McKeesport, arrived in New York yesterday on the steamer Albert Ballin after a three-year residence in Cairo, Egypt.

She will visit her parents until August 30, when she will return to her work as teacher in the American College for Girls in Cairo.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Housewarming

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper to give a housewarming for one's self, or does some friend give it for another friend? I have been told that you are supposed to ask someone to give you a housewarming, and others say that you give your own.

2. If it is proper to have a housewarming one's self, do you think it just the right thing to do?

1. We ourselves should give our own "welcome-to-the-new-home" party. It would be thoroughly out of order for us to ask a friend to give this party for us . . . there wouldn't be any reason for making this request, and I should think that a friend, no matter how close the friendship, would be highly surprised at such a request.

2. A housewarming, in my opinion, is one of the most charming of parties to plan and to give. The idea of opening your new home to your friends, of greeting them in your new home, of showing them that you are "given to hospitality" . . . it's all a perfect foundation for a perfect party. Hospitality is one of the glorious ideas in the world, and this first gracious gesture of hospitality in the new home is most significant and most important. And it is for the hostess and host to make this gesture.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- By SALLY MARTIN

We Shouldn't Regret the Past

Must they be heartbreak days those days when the kids have grown up, and are stepping out, away from the home nest, into lives of their own, leaving that home nest strangely orderly, appallingly peaceful?

Is there nothing left for mother except to sit with folded hands, looking back over the busy past and dreading an empty future?

That's what Mother Rowan expects to do. Just now she is very busy with wedding plans, for soon her "Baby," the last of a riotous family of four, will march up the flowery aisle. After that is over, what is there left for poor, lonely Mother? Nothing, according to her, but Gobs of Gloom.

FEARFUL OF FUTURE

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Will you please help me? I don't know what I'm going to do with myself. The future seems terribly empty to me, and I just don't know how I am going to stand it.

"You see, for nearly 25 years I have been a busy mother. I had four lovely children, two boys and two girls, and I was devoted to them. They were my life. My husband and I started out without much. We worked hard to raise them and have managed to give them a good education. It wasn't easy, but it filled our lives so full that there didn't seem to be room for much else. Everything we did was really for their benefit.

"And now they will soon all be gone. The oldest, a girl, is married, and the two boys are both away, the younger in his last year at college, the other working in a town half way across the continent. There is only the youngest at home, and in just a few days she will be married and move away to another state. The younger boy will be away, too, when he finishes school.

"So you see, from a house filled with happy, lively youngsters, our home is turning into a sort of tomb.

"What can I do? What can any other do, when that tragic time comes, when she feels that life has passed on, out of her hands? MARTHA ROWAN."

Is life cruel to mothers?

Not unless mothers themselves help it to be so, my dear, and that is what you are doing. You have been so absorbed in living for those youngsters of yours, in doing things for them, that you have pushed all the rest of life away from you.

And now that they have inevitably grown up into a place of their own, as life intended that they should, you're left with empty hands.

MUST GO ON

We had no right to center our lives around our children. We could have been good and loving mothers, and still have been energetic and colorful individuals, with a vital interest in the great world outside the home; and that is what you will have to do and be now.

Force yourself to get that wider viewpoint of life. Force yourself to use your head, as well as your heart. You loved your children, but they were also a grand excuse for mental laziness. Now you must go on with your job in life, as dad is going on with his; for you still have the job you always had, the job of being a woman and a citizen, as well as the job of being a mother.

So stop being sorry for yourself, sister. Stop dramatizing the sentimental sluggishness of the years that have gone. Get busy, and fill the years that have come with a real performance.

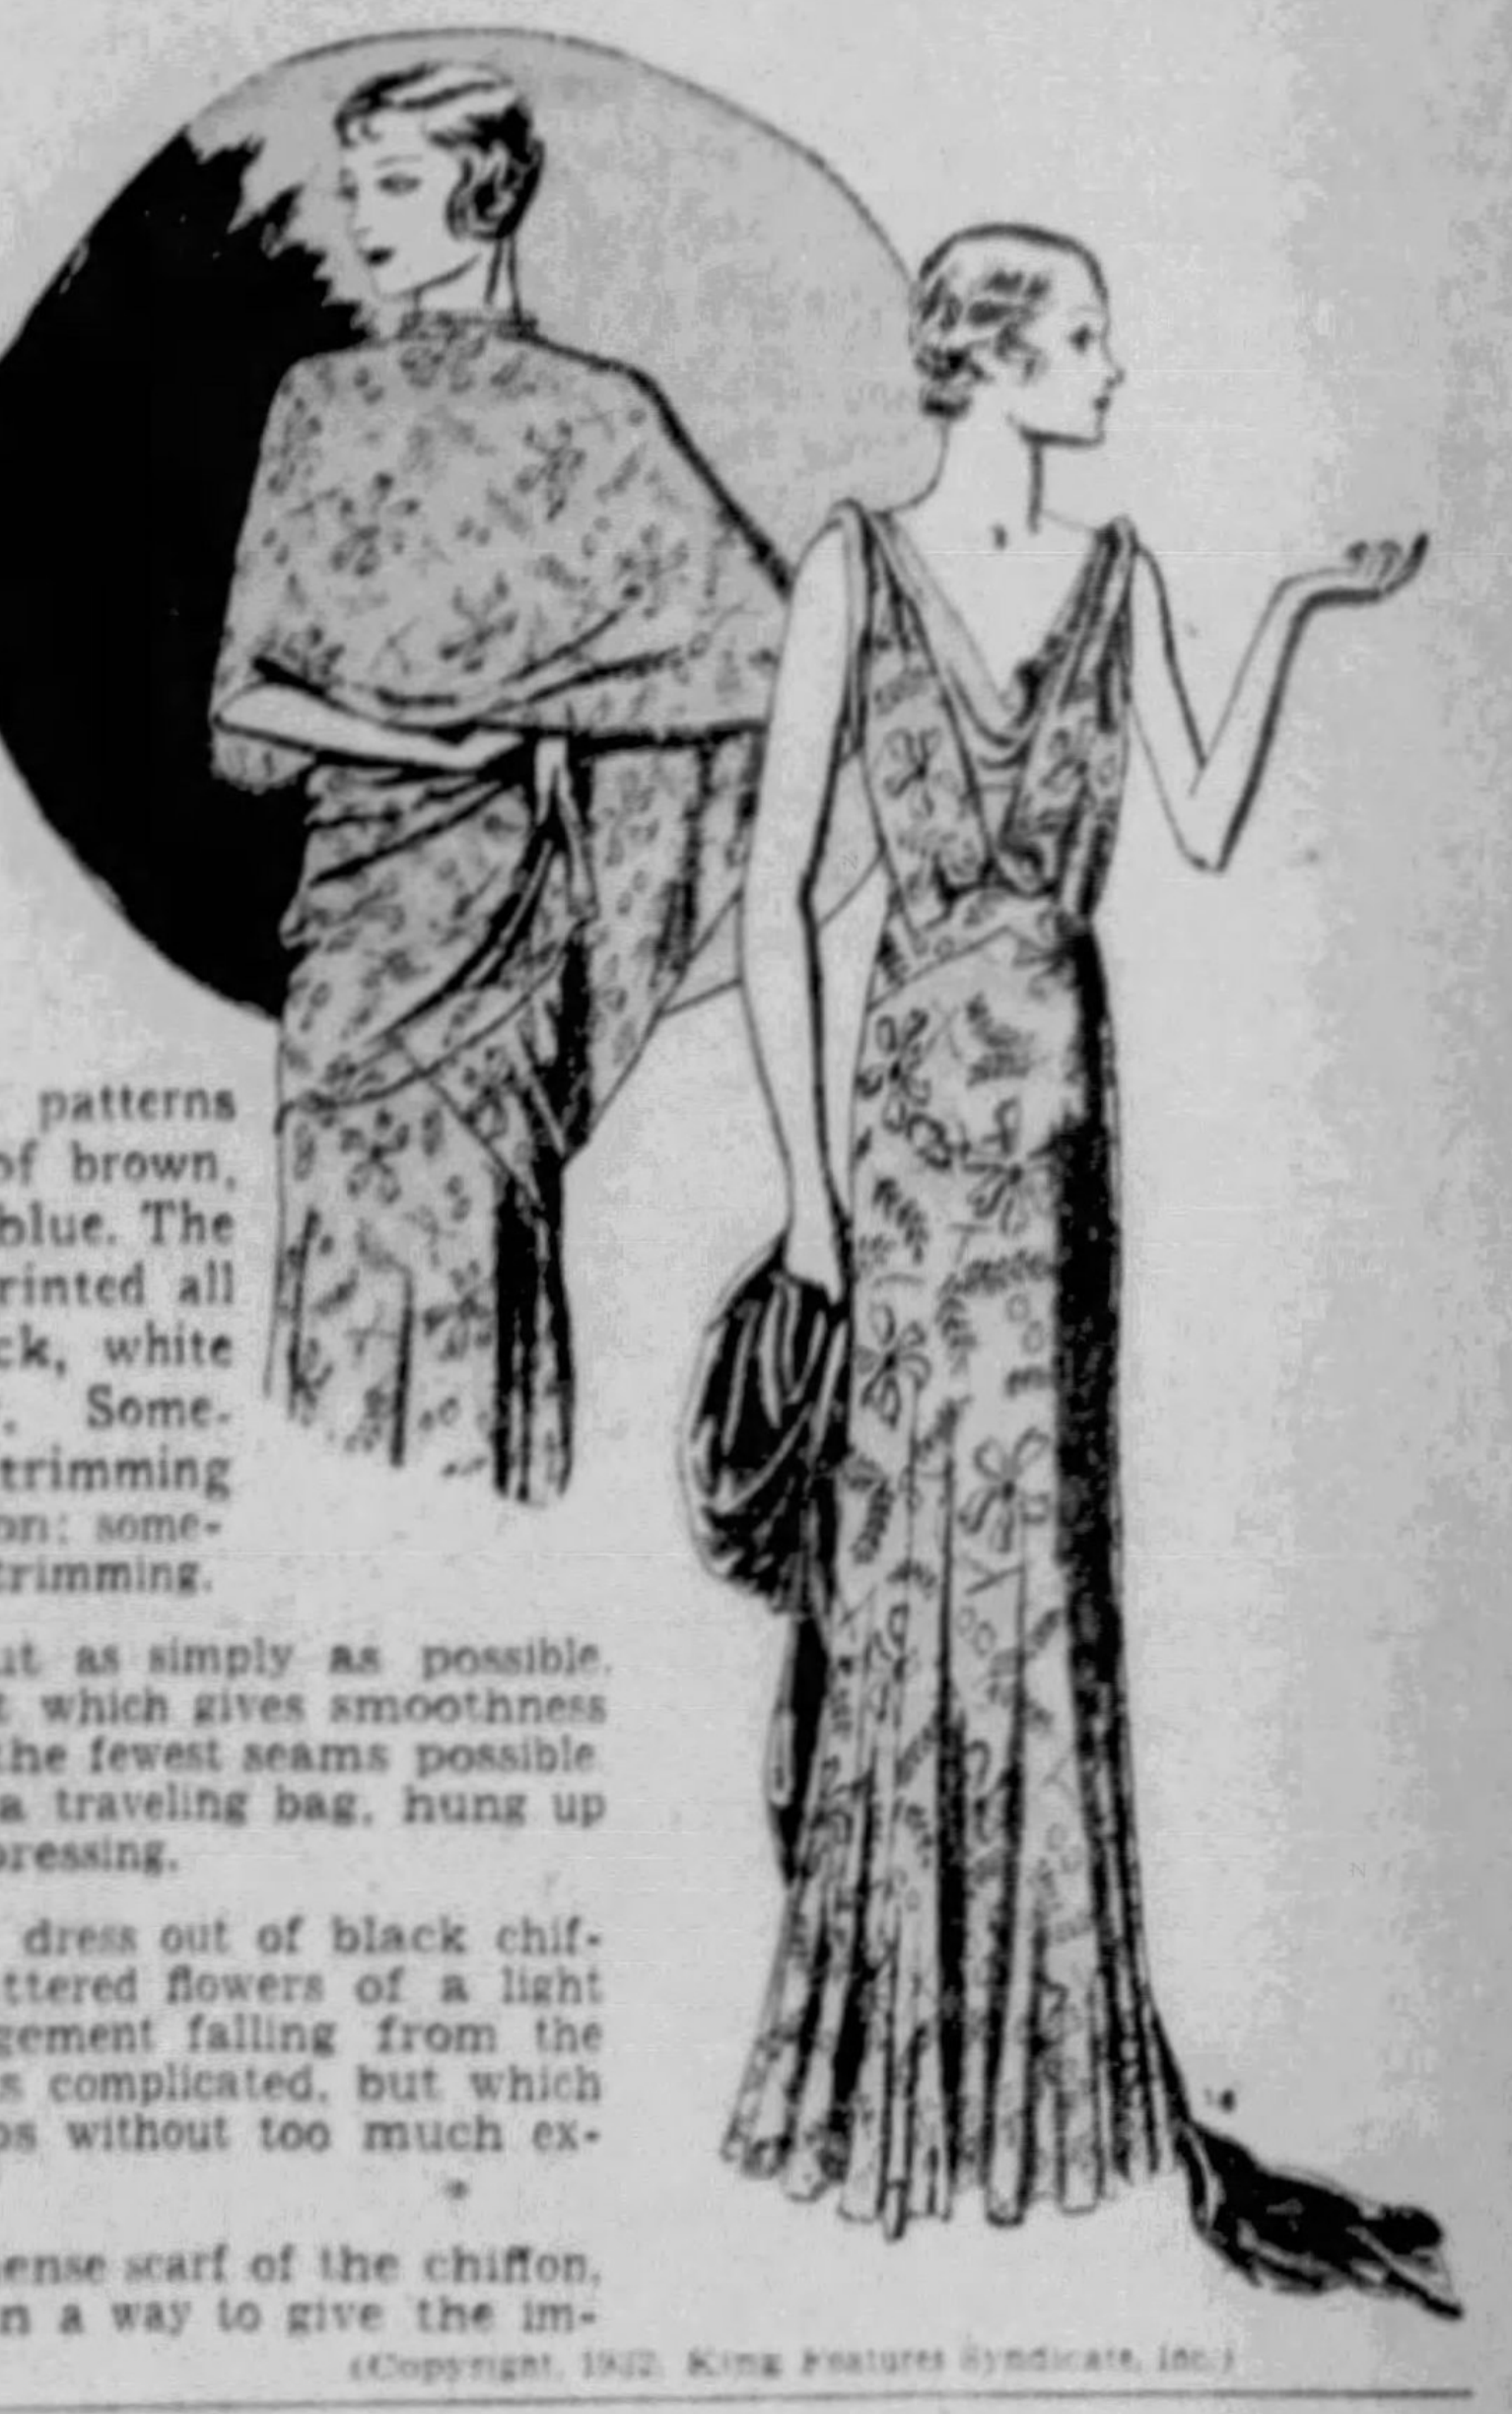
COSTUME OF PRINTED CHIFFON HAS PROMINENT FASHION PLACE

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 9.—There is a special place reserved in the fashion plans set forth this year by the Paris dressmakers for the costume of printed chiffon. It has become a special kind of thing, made in a special way—a dress that may be more or less formal, yet can be taken traveling without much fuss. And it is, above all, the ideal evening dress for hot weather.

* * *

THIS YEAR it is more often dark than light—a practical touch as well as a fashionable one. It spatters its flowers and conventional patterns sparsely over backgrounds of black, of brown, of deep brownish purple and of navy blue. The patterns themselves are frequently printed all in a single color—green against black, white against plum, pale blue against navy. Sometimes the printed fabric is used as trimming only, on a dress made of solid-color chiffon; sometimes the solid-color material forms the trimming.

* * *

THE NEWER models have skirts cut as simply as possible. There is an approach to the circular skirt which gives smoothness at the hips and fullness at the hem with the fewest seams possible. This kind of a dress may be taken from a traveling bag, hung up for an hour and be presentable without pressing.

* * *

MAINBOCHER makes this kind of a dress out of black chiffon, with certain portions printed in spattered flowers of a light bright green. He uses a bretelle arrangement falling from the shoulders to the waist in a way that looks complicated, but which softens the lines about the waist and hips without too much extravagant cutting.

* * *

HIS WRAP is equally simple an immense scarf of the chiffon, pulled around the figure from the front in a way to give the impression of a three-quarter-length wrap.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:-

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Prepares to Tell of Her Return

As I went to Lillian's side, not hastily, lest I call attention to her, I heard Dicky addressing Ronald and Bob Trevellan.

"I'll show you where your room is," he said hastily. "Jim will bring up your traps."

"Oh, we'll take our own; we have not much," the boys said, and took their bags from the trunks on the back of the cars, while Dicky inwardly fumed, as I knew from his narrowed eyebrows. I waited only until they had disappeared before going to Harry Underwood's side.

"Bring her to the front veranda, to that couch-hammock," I said in a low tone. "It's the coolest place in the house, and I'll call Katherine."

"No, no," Lillian protested, feebly, but with decision. "I know what's the matter with me. I've been mentally racing home to you two until I'm exhausted. Now that I'm here and can talk things over with you, I shall be perfectly all right. I'll lie down on the veranda for a few minutes, and if you'll have Katie make me a cup of tea that is all I shall want except to talk to you both. I must do that right away. But don't bother Katherine!"

Her voice was rising, and I thought I detected something very like hysteria in it. Over her head her husband's eyes met mine significantly.

"You shall do exactly as you wish," I told her. "Harry, take her to the veranda, and I'll dash out to Katie. Her tea will be ready in two or three minutes."

For once, promise ran behind fulfillment, for when I reached the kitchen Katie was already putting a pot of tea on a tray.

"Messis Underwood, she not feel so vell, I tink," she said as I entered, and I realized that from her kitchen window she also had seen how utterly spent was Lillian. "Ven I see Meester Underwood holding her opp," she went on, "I feex hot vater qveek und den tea. Vere I take eet?"

"On the front veranda," I told her, "and thank you so much for your thoughtfulness."

"Oh, dot's all right," she told me, with the lofty air which would be so ludicrous if it were not for the loyalty and efficiency which is accompanies.

I discreetly kept behind her as she went out to the veranda with the tray, and sitting down near Lillian kept an unobtrusive watch over her while she drank her tea. That her husband was also covertly watching her, and worrying, as I was, over the hysterical anxiety that patently was gripping her, I knew, although his face told nothing.

But Lillian's resilience is something upon which one always may count, and I was not surprised to see her straighten herself with renewed energy as if the hot tea had brought strength back to her.

"Let's get out of here," she said. "It's perfectly all right now, and I simply must talk to you both; but not here. Which will be better, your room or mine?" She looked at her husband.

"Mine," he answered promptly, then qualified his reply with a "Don't you think so?" addressed to me.

"By all means," I replied. "Over in the wing, we shan't be so apt to be disturbed."

"Right you are!" Lillian rose to her feet and slipped her hand into her husband's arm, held ready for her grasp. "Come on! Let's go! But—" pausing in her progress toward the door, "where's the Dicky bird? He ought to be in on this. I need his advice, too."

"He's showing Ronald and Bob their room," I volunteered. "He ought to be at liberty directly after that, unless—" I broke off and looked at Mr. Underwood.

"If you'll go up with Lil," he said promptly, "I'll drop over and see if Katherine will need either of us for the next quarter of an hour."

"Make it a half," his wife said insistently. "I don't want to be hurried."

But she gave the impression of one driven as her husband relinquished her to me, and we went through the hall and up the stairs to the wing, where the men of our family have their bedrooms.

"How I've wanted and needed you!" she said at last. "What I've been through! If anyone had told me that my child would—"

But before she could finish her sentence Dicky and Harry had arrived, and I knew that the outburst of emotion, so utterly unlike Lillian, would not be repeated. Whatever she had to relate would be told calmly, soberly, but she had so infected me with her incipient hysteria that I had a mad impulse to shake her and thus hurry the tale of what had happened at the Brixton camp.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Give Baby Proper Food, Sunshine and Air

Dr. Copeland

Defective development of the skeleton is the cause of many abnormal conditions found in the bony system. At birth the bones are in an immature state. They are composed largely of cartilage, a grisly like substance through which there are small areas of earthy material.

The soft portions of the bone gradually become hardened by the deposit of lime and phosphorus, so that at the age of 25 years the bony structure of the body has reached perfection. From then until 50 there is little change in the bones, but after the age of 50 they become thinner, lighter and more brittle.

Defects of the bones in babyhood and youth are due to some deficiency in the diet, and as the result of improper diet rickets is very common. In this disease the bones are abnormally soft, causing various deformities, of which pigeon breast and bow legs are the most characteristic.

The symptoms of rickets are not particularly definite, vague pains in the spine, knee or hip being the most common.

Thanks to the great progress made in medicine, the extremely disfiguring deformities of crooked back, which used to be so common, are rarely seen today. The general public has learned that sunshine, fresh air, cod-liver oil and a well-balanced diet, including the vitamins, are of value in treating this disease.

Tuberculosis of the bones is a disease of childhood occurring commonly from the third to the eighth year. Robust children are seldom attacked. In frequent instances tuberculosis occurs in several members of the same family.

Whooping cough or measles, unless checked in the early stages, deplete the vital forces and predispose the young child to infection.

"Pott's disease" is tuberculosis of the spine. Hip joint disease is tuberculosis of the hip. When the hip is involved the pain is usually in the knee. "Starting pains," as they are called, occur mostly at night and are caused by a muscular spasm. Parents sometimes diagnose these night disorders as "growing pains;" but if the pains are coupled with a slight lameness that seems to grow progressively worse, there should be no delay in consulting a competent physician.

Treatment directed towards raising the nutrition of the patient to the highest point is important. The local treatment must be carried on by a surgeon.

Broken bones in children and in adults show certain marked differences. In immaturely formed bones the injury does not completely sever the two ends of the fracture, merely breaking certain parts of the bone and bending parts. The technical name for this is "green stick fracture," because it is so like the incomplete result when one tries to break a green twig.

In a person of advanced years a fracture is usually serious, for the lack of vitality in the aged often keeps the parts of the injured bone from reuniting. The angle of the bones in the hip joint is altered in old age, which is the reason we find so many fractured hips in persons of advanced age.

Recent reports show that slowly uniting fractures, at any age, may be aided by a nutritious diet, proper use of the mercury lamp and the administration of cod liver oil.

Avoiding a Defensive Trap

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

The play of attack and defense, the tactics used by the Declarer and the defending side, is a matter of never-failing interest at the Bridge table. As sometimes in the bidding it is well to simulate strength where it does not exist, so in the play there are defensive opportunities to apparently concede a trick to the opposition, which, if accepted, returns to the giver multiplied.

Mr. John F. Stone, of Forest Hills, N. Y., sent me the other day the hand below, played in a Rubber game, in which one of his opponents offered him a "cheap" trick, but Mr. Stone wisely refused the Grecian gift.

The final contract was four spades, played by South, and the opening lead was the heart 9. East, deciding that South did not have more than two hearts, overtook the nine with the ten, and returned his singleton diamond, hoping, if West had either the Ace or a King, that he might secure not only two heart tricks, but a second trump trick through ruffing diamonds as well. South won with the Ace, and led a spade honor. East refused to take the first round of the suit, and South now shifted to the Ace of clubs and ruffed his losing club in Dummy, then led the last trump from the Dummy hand. East again refused to win, and South continued the suit, East winning [illegible] the Ace, and leading the ace of hearts, when the following situation developed:

◇ QJ86

◇ 97
♣ Q105

North

♠ 9
♡ QJ3

◇ K3
♣ K

East now led the heart Queen. Careless play would have been to permit this to run to the King in Dummy, but fortunately South could count. It was true the heart King was high. It was true West held no trumps. But it was also true that he could not return to his own hand except by leading a diamond, and East was marked with no more of that suit, and also held a trump. South, therefore, ruffed the heart return with the four drew East's last spade, and, of course, the rest of his cards were high.

The play is neither spectacular nor difficult, but it is the type of play which is frequently overlooked in the average rubbers played in homes and clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

What should West lead, holding:

♠ QJ1082 ♡ QJ2 ◇ Q1054 ♣ 8

Answer—Queen of spades. It is essential that trumps be drawn and partner's honor-tricks in side suits protected.

STOCK MARKET PRICE TONE WEAK

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—The decline of the previous session showed signs of having been checked in the early dealings in today's stock market, although the list failed to show any notable recuperative power.

A few issues rose a point or so, including B-M-T, American Tobacco, United States Steel preferred, Borden and Corn Products, but much of the list was barely changed during the first half hour. American Telephone sagged a minor fraction, and small early gains in United States Steel common and American Can were not held.

Wall street had been surprised that the stock market did not make a more enthusiastic response to the Lausanne settlement. With prices having fallen back yesterday to the average low of the bottom of the cycle reached in June, the list was watched closely today for signs of support.

Overnight news of character to influence the market was negligible. The weekly mercantile reviews said that retail trade had held up fairly well, in view of the usual seasonal trend at this period.

Sterling cables opened steadily at $3.94¾, while the London stock market showed further strength in response to Lausanne. French francs opened a shade lower.

Insects Threaten Texas Cotton Crop

DALLAS, July 9.—Increased insect activity following weeks of rainy weather, with 64 Texas counties in the main cotton belt reporting boll weevils as more numerous than last July, featured the Dallas News' Friday cotton condition report for the week ended July 7. If showery, cloudy weather should continue throughout July, heavy crop damage is certain, since it is generally held still to be two to three weeks later than average. Not only boll weevils, but cotton flea hoppers, grass-hoppers and, in some counties, leaf worms are beginning to damage the crop.

New Haven Bond Issue Approved

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to issue $25,516,000 of first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds in reimbursement of expenditures heretofore made in paying matured obligations. The bonds will be pledged and repledged as collateral security for short-term notes.

The Boston and Maine Railroad was authorized to issue $10,000,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds. They will be pledged and repledged as security for short term notes.

Security Offerings Gain During Week

NEW YORK, July 9.—New issues of securities formally offered this week totaled $27,600,000, compared to $1,177,000 last week and $30,613,500 in the like 1931 period.

Erstwhile Blue Chips Feeling Heaviest Pressure

Most of the popular stocks among industrials and specialties, the one-time "blue chips," have been under more or less persistent pressure, and while offerings have not been large except in a few instances, selling has been sufficient in the absence of nearby demand to make for a substantial list of new bear market lows. For the most part new minimum prices have been registered chiefly by stocks of the foregoing character, the list including American Telephone, Coca Cola, Eastman Kodak, Detroit Edison, First National Stores, International Business Machines, Harvester, Public Service of New Jersey and Union Pacific. Losses in those stocks yesterday ranged from 1 to around 4 points at the day's low levels.

With other groups causing widespread disappointment by their leaning toward weakness, the action of the railroad shares is being watched closely for a possible cue to the immediate outlook for the price trend. This is especially true among that element in the Street which is still disposed to place considerable stress on the movement of the averages. Rails, it is contended, have behaved decidedly well, showing strong resistance on approaching the previous low levels.

Numerous proposals to represent foreign liquor interests in the United States have been received by Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., should the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead Act be amended. One representative of the Pilsner breweries of Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, has recently returned to Europe, after having discussed possibilities of Canada Dry representing his concern and other German breweries, in the event that the United States law is amended. These negotiations are understood to have been based on the proposal that Canada Dry serve as distributing agent for the foreign interests.

Botany Worsted Mills worked on a full three-shift schedule on July 4, thus shattering a tradition of many years' standing, Col. Charles F. H. Johnson, president, stated. The mill rapidly is stepping up production so as to employ its full complement of 4,000 workers, Col. Johnson added, explaining that the current activity by no means represented an "emergency situation," but rather reflected good sized orders and a general betterment of the business tone. Much of the business is attributed to seasonal retail interest in women's cloth-coat and woolen and worsted dress fabrics, he said. He predicted further encouraging developments on the favor of wool dresses noted last fall.

The revenue motor bus is a factor of increasing importance in the calculation of prospective motor fuel demand, accounting for nearly three per cent of the 1931 domestic gasoline consumption, as compared with 1.5 per cent of the 1925 demand, stated Department of Commerce. The increased gasoline demand results largely from the gain in motor fuel consumption per bus rather than from an increase in the number of buses operated. The average gasoline consumption by intercity buses increased from 6,061 gallons in 1924 to 11,585 gallons in 1931, while that of city buses has increased from 6,616 gallons in 1924 to 9,176 gallons in 1931.

The stock market received a visit from a comparative stranger yesterday, as 10 shares of Coca Cola International were sold at $171 a share. It was the first time this issue had appeared on the ticker tape since October 9, 1930, when 10 shares traded at $348 a share. Coca Cola International Corporation is a holding company for the Coca Cola Company. It was formed 10 years ago to hold a large block of Coca Cola stock to continue control by the original management.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Union Oil Company of California for six months ended June 30 reports net profits after depreciation, depletion and drilling expenditures of $1,500,000, equivalent to 34 cents a share on 4,386,070 shares outstanding, comparing with $1,900,000, or 43 cents a share for the like period a year ago. Net profit for June quarter was $550,000, or 12 cents a share, against $100,000, or 2 cents a share in the second quarter, 1931.

United States and Foreign Securities Corporation reports for six months ended June 30 net loss of $1,851,279 after expenses, taxes, and after net loss on sales of securities and syndicate participations amounting to $2,451,306. In the first half of 1931 net profit was $140,399 after expenses, federal taxes and after net loss on sales of securities and syndicate participations amounting to $452,266.

Nash Motor Car Company reports for the quarter ended May 31 earnings equal to 11c a share, compared with 46c in the May, 1931, quarter. Six months earnings equaled 19c a share, against 86c in the like 1931 period. Cash and government securities on May 31, 1932, amounted to $33,428,970, compared to $34,892,182 on May 31, 1931.

United Corporation of Delaware, large utility holding company, had net income of $7,053,898 in the first half year, equal to 23 cents a common share, compared with $9,278,517 or 38 cents a share in the same period of 1931. Second quarter net income this year was $3,402,047, or 11 cents a common share.

United States and International Securities Corporation net loss for six months ended June 30 was $577,846 after expenses and loss on sale of securities, compared to net profit of $677,907 in the first half of 1931.

Continental Baking Corporation reports net income of $1,474,741 for the 25 weeks ended June 18, compared with $1,987,046 in the same period a year ago.

June Automobile Production Off 1½%

NEW YORK, June 9.—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates June production of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada at 190,600 units compared to 193,270 in May, a decrease of 1½ per cent. Six months output is estimated at 912,353 units, against 1,639,027 in the like 1931 period or a decrease of 44 per cent.

BANKS BLOCK INSULL PLAN

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Receivers for the National Electric Power Company and the National Public Service Corporation have resigned and petitions in bankruptcy have been filed for the latter company and for the Seaboard Public Service Company, a subsidiary holding company.

These developments, which occurred yesterday, brought to a sudden halt the efforts to keep intact the $600,000,000 eastern properties brought together by Samuel Insull in the last five years.

The resignations of the receivers followed protracted meetings between receivers of the $2,000,000,000 Middle West Utilities Company and representatives of five New York banks with which the stocks of practically all the operating companies in the group had been pledged as collateral for loans.

The Middle West Utilities receivers, Charles A. McCulloch and Edward N. Hurley, were trying to preserve that company's $40,000,000 stake in the voting stock of National Electric Power. The receivers in their effort to preserve the $600,000,000 group intact, an eleventh hour offer of the New York Trust Company, which had advertised the sale at auction next Wednesday of collateral securing a loan of $3,000,000 which it made to the group, suggested that the auction might not be held if the trust company were allowed majority representation on the boards of the four operating companies whose stocks it holds to secure its loan.

The New York Times said that in view of the resignations and the actions in bankruptcy, the auction is regarded as likely to proceed as scheduled.

CANNED PEACH PRICE DROPS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Following the failure of California peach canners to reach a curtailment accord under the plan for peach control, the price of No. 2½ standard peaches has dropped to $1.05 per dozen cans from $1.40, and choice grade is selling at $1.25 compared to $1.60. The independent canners are reported quoting standard grade at 95c a dozen and choice at $1.15.

SANFRANCISCO, July 9.—The cling peach growers' emergency committee, representing a majority of growers of canning peaches in California, have dispatched telegrams to President Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, the Federal Farm Board, and California Congressmen appealing for Federal funds to can at cost 2,000,000 cases of peaches for free distribution to needy citizens.

Frigidaire Gets Order from Navy

DAYTON, O., July 9. — The Frigidaire Corporation, subsidiary of General Motors Corporation, has received an order from the Department of the Navy for Frigidaire water coolers for barracks, office buildings and shops at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

Frigidaire Corporation has manufactured its 2,500,000th frigidaire. The company has been in its field for 16 years.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Bank clearings are again somewhat improved, probably because of the July settlements now falling due. The total this week, for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, was $4,624,527,000, showing a decline of 40.2 per cent from last year. At New York City clearings were $3,194,244,000, a loss of 40.2 per cent, while the total for the cities outside of New York of $1,430,283,000 was 40.5 per cent smaller.

Largely on account of the difference in dates, clearings this week for five days only, exceed those of the preceding full week by $941,567,000, whereas a year ago there was a reduction of $966,118,000. Furthermore, losses this week at practically all of the cities included, compared with a year ago, are below those of the recent preceding weeks, and this continues to be the case notably at some of the southern cities. For the first week of July, this year, the decline is less than in June.

Clearings at leading cities, as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago follow:

GOV. ROOSEVELT URGES ORDER IN BUSINESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his lucid acceptance speech, brought further into the realm of practical affairs the increasingly fashionable demand of progressive economists for better machinery for industrial planning and economic co-ordination.

Broadus Mitchell, Johns Hopkins economist, in his lively new volume entitled, "A Preface to Economics," effectively voices the growing demand for a planned business economy, instead of the existing anarchy in business.

Mr. Rukeyser

In explaining the current breakdown, Mr. Mitchell declared:

"We have individual greediness which knows no precautionary restraint. There is no forethought. Instead, we suffer the penalties of industrial collapse. There is no plan. All is left to chance, which results as often unluckily as luckily."

In indicating the limitations to stop the gap in piecemeal economic remedies, Mr. Mitchell concludes:

"If the business cycle is a tree which bears bitter fruit, and if the roots of the tree are in the soil of competition, then the chemistry of this soil must be changed. This may be accomplished gradually, but it must be accomplished completely. Concert of action according to deliberate plan must be substituted for the present anarchy in production. Manipulation of parts of the present system, say in the reform of banking or in stabilization of prices, will not ultimately serve. These and other remedies are doubtless helpful, particularly because they move us along toward accepting the principle of social control in the interest of society, but they do not touch the cause, which lies in the fact of competition under acquisitive sanctions.

"If typhoid is epidemic in a community, it will help some to build up the health of everybody in order that they may better resist the attack of the disease; it will be wise to have a doctor called immediately; it will be sensible to promote household cleanliness, and to quarantine those infected, but it will prove vastly more effective, and more economical, to rid the water or milk supply of the cultures which breed the disease."

AMERICAN AIRWAYS

On June 30, American Airways, Inc., pioneer air mail operators, completed six years of air mail service between New York and Boston. During the first year of operation the line carried 6,631 pounds of mail. During the year just ended, 58,301 pounds were carried. This was the first air mail contract awarded by the government to a private operator under the Kelly air mail act of 1925, the law which started the establishment of a network of air mail lines which now extends to all parts of the country.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS GAIN

The National Association of Life Underwriters closed its fiscal year with the largest membership in the 43 years of its history. It now has 20,000 members. It is the third successive year the organization, founded as a national trade body for life insurance agents, has shown a gain in membership over the previous year.

NEW FASHION PARK DIRECTORS

George G. Goldie, Fred C. Haas and Edward Rosenberg, Jr., have been elected directors of Fashion Park associates. Mr. Haas also was elected secretary, succeeding Herbert H. Mass, who remains a director. All other officers and directors were re-elected.

CARBOLOY PRICES CUT

The Carboloy Company, Inc., subsidiary of General Electric Company, has made a general reduction in the price of Carboloy cemented carbide tools and raw metal. The new price schedule is based upon a sliding scale according to the total weight of Carboloy in each tool or blank.

PAINT DEMAND LAGS

Demand is slackening for most paint materials, but this is a normal seasonal development. In lead pigments the falling off in demand has been particularly marked.

LOCAL STOCKS UNCHANGED, QUIET

Moderate trading in the brewing stocks comprised the bulk of the business on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in today's short session. Prices in the beer group were practically unchanged from the levels at which they have been selling most of the week. Pittsburgh Brewing preferred held at the 8½ level where it has been hovering since the mild flurry which followed the adoption of the repeal plank by the Democratic National Convention. The common remained at $6, marking an advance of a full point over its price a week ago. Independent Brewing was unchanged at $3.

The fuel group and the heavy industrial issues were dull and unchanged. Only a few scattered sales appeared in these divisions, and most of the trades involved odd lots, or blocks of less than 100 shares each.

Consolidated Steel And Foster Hook Up

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Foster Wheeler Corporation has concluded an arrangement with the Consolidated Steel Corporation, Limited, by which the latter company takes over the entire western sales personnel of Foster Wheeler and will handle all sales of Foster Wheeler equipment in California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico. Consolidated Steel also will manufacture the equipment for this territory.

Budd Takes Place Of Insull on Board

CHICAGO, July 9.—Britton I. Budd, president of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois; James F. Fogarty, vice president of the North American Company, and Lawrence Callahan have been elected directors of North American Light and Power Company, to fill vacancies on the board, two of which were caused by resignations of Samuel and Martin Insull.

Philippine Islands Send Gold Here

MANILA, July 9.—(AP.)—The army transport Republican sailed today with $2,200,000 in gold coins from the Philippine treasury, consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The gold has been lying idle here several years, and insular officials decided to put it to work at 3½ per cent interest.

Shell Reduces Gas 2 Cents in Boston

BOSTON, July 9.—Shell Eastern Petroleum Products Company has reduced the price of gasoline 2 cents a gallon here and approximately that amount at other points in Eastern Massachusetts. New prices, taxes included, are 15 cents filling stations and 14½ cents tank wagon.

Standard Oil of New York met the reduction.

Match Creditors Postpone Meeting

NEW YORK, July 9.—A meeting of creditors of International Match Company, scheduled before Referee in Bankruptcy Oscar W. Ehrhorn, has been adjourned until July 11. Referee Ehrhorn, on motion of counsel for Irving Trust Company, trustee, signed an order granting power of attorney to an associated counsel in Stockholm, Sweden.

Copper for Export Sells at New Low

NEW YORK, July 9.—Sales of copper in the export market are reported at from 4.90 to 4.95 cents a pound, a new low level in the history of the copper industry. Sellers in these transactions have been acting outside Copper Exporters, Inc., which still maintains its price at the equivalent of 5½ cents a pound.

U. S. CRUDE OIL OUTPUT OFF IN MAY

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP.)—Production of crude petroleum in the United States during May was announced by the Bureau of Mines as totaling 68,523,000 barrels, a daily average of 2,210,000.

This represents a decline of 47,000 barrels from the daily average of the previous month and is 268,000 barrels below the daily average of a year ago.

Natural gasoline produced during the month totalled 3,079,000 barrels compared with 3,879,000 in May, 1931. Benzol totalled 98,000 barrels compared with 176,000.

IMPORTS LOWER

Imports of crude petroleum were 5,089,000 barrels as compared with 7,691,000 in April, and 4,512,000 in May, 1931. Refined products imported were 2,874,000 barrels compared with 4,683,000 in April, and 2,847,000 in May.

The total demand during the month of May was 78,190,000 barrels. During April the demand was 80,479,000 and during May, 1931, 87,789,000.

Exports of crude petroleum were 2,942,000 barrels against 2,867,000 in April, and 2,268,000 in May, 1931, and refined products exported were 8,891,000 barrels compared with 7,772,000 in April and 11,987,000 in May, 1931.

253 DAYS' SUPPLY

The domestic demand during May totaled 66,357,000 barrels against 69,840,000 in April and 73,534,000 in May, 1931. Stocks on hand were 368,039,000 barrels of crude petroleum against 371,266,000 in April and 398,972,000 in May, 1931. The grand total of all oils including crude petroleum, natural gasoline and refined products was 636,955,000 barrels which the bureau said was the equivalent of 253 days supply. In April the grand total was 635,482,000 barrels, equivalent to 237 days supply and in May, 1931, 656,867,000 barrels, equivalent to 232 days supply.

Industry Pushes Use of Acceptances In Commerce

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

INDUSTRY IS RALLYING around a widespread movement to increase the value of the Federal Reserve System through more general use of trade acceptances.

The sponsors of the movement declare that the Reserve Banks in recent years have not filled the place in commerce which was expected by the founders of the system. As originally proposed the institution would provide an elasticity of credit so that expansion or contraction could take place in accord with the needs of business. The seasonal periods of tight and easy money were to be eliminated. Individual banks would have a new reserve upon which they could rely in times of stress. The reserve system was planned to free commerce from the yoke of misfit credit and to make credit fit the needs of business.

Changed Conditions Upset Reserve Plans

AT THE TIME that the Federal Reserve System was instituted, commerce and industry were heavy borrowers from banks so that the institution had good promise of being workable. Since the war, however, new financing has been easy. Large corporations sold securities, got new capital and ceased to be borrowers from banks. This materially reduced the supply of commercial paper and, while it did not make the Federal Reserve System entirely useless, it did seriously curtail its effectiveness.

Commercial paper ceased to be the important instrument of commerce that it had been in the past. As a result, banks no longer had a large share of their funds invested in notes which could be discounted at the Federal Reserve in time of need. Bank recourse to the reserve was almost entirely limited to borrowing on government securities. Collateral loans, investments in bonds and mortgages and other types of paper were not eligible for rediscount.

* * *

Trade Acceptance To Release Credit

BANKS TODAY have surplus funds to lend. The difficulty is to find safe borrowers. Leading corporations among which are Dupont, General Electric, General Motors, National Steel and Westinghouse Electric believe that wider use of acceptances offers a solution of the problem.

Trade acceptances work as follows: An organization of good credit standing needs materials or equipment. It buys its requirements from another organization of good credit standing. It does not pay cash. The company which makes the sale draws an acceptance for the amount due payable in 30, 60 or 90 days. It sends this acceptance to the purchaser. The purchaser marks the paper "accepted." Indorses it on the face, and indicates the payable date and the bank at which it is to be paid. It sends it back to the seller. The seller discounts the acceptance at his own bank and for all practical purposes is paid in cash. The bank can rediscount the acceptance at the Federal Reserve since it is eligible commercial paper.

Wider use of acceptances, it is believed, offers a means to make credit an actual stimulating factor to business recovery. This accounts for the enthusiastic interest shown in the development of its use by outstanding corporations.

Lausanne Agreement Bullish From Long Range Viewpoint.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(INS.)—The Lausanne conference results proved to be a dud as far as the market was concerned.

While the agreement at Lausanne is undoubtedly bullish, it is only so from the long range point of view. But it is not going to put any money into the treasuries of the companies whose stocks are listed on the "Big Board." No upward movement can be considered as more than a jiggle until the net income item in the quarterly statement shows a decided improvement, for that is what counts.

Any rise in the market will find plenty of stock coming out, but at the same time it should be remembered that in markets as thin as this one, commitments on either side are equally dangerous.

While the wheat market may be entitled to a further rally, it looks as if any upturn will have the red lights against it at the start. The reason is simply the Farm Board. The latter has about 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in its elevators and about the same amount coming to it in September and December. The big question overhanging the market is: What does the board intend to do with this wheat? If it takes the wheat on delivery it will mean that much more cash wheat to sell, and if it does not intend to take the wheat on delivery it means that the board will some time between now and the first of year have to sell it on the open market. This brings up the questiton as to who will buy the wheat when it becomes known that the Farm Board is trying to sell 30,000,000 bushels of grain.

Wilcox Oil Fined In Proration Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8.—(AP.)—The H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas Company was found guilty of contempt charges by the State Corporation Commission today and fines totaling $8,500 were assessed for violation of proration rules in the Oklahoma City oil field.

The case, which W. L. Murphy, Wilcox attorney, said he would appeal to the State Supreme Court, is a major test of the commission's power to penalize oil companies for violation of its regulations.

Brown, Jones Freed In Caldwell Case

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 9.—(AP.)—James B. Brown and Charles F. Jones, former president and vice president respectively of the National Bank of Kentucky, were dismissed in Federal Court here yesterday on peremptory instructions to the jury by Judge Charles I. Dawson. They had been charged with misapplication of $1,000,000 of the bank's funds to the benefit of Caldwell & Co., Nashville (Tenn.) investment house.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Volume of trading in sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange yesterday totaled 76,950 tons, the largest turnover for any single day since December 16, 1930.

STEEL AWAITING SEASONAL UPTURN

By R. E. V. LUTY

Production of Bessemer and open-hearth steel ingots in June is officially reported at 15.96 per cent of capacity, against 19.67 per cent in May and 29.96 per cent in February, the high month of the year. Production in the half year was about 7,600,000 tons, four-fifths of the second half of last year and one-half of the first half.

In the last two weeks of June the rate was about 15 per cent. Some plants closed June 30 for the week and resumptions after last Monday's holiday have been slow and irregular, so that no close estimate can be made of the average rate thus far this month but it has probably not exceeded 10 per cent. Next week will indicate the real pace, which may approximate that of late June.

POTENTIAL DEMAND

Seasonal increase usually shows itself in a mild way in August, with a marked rise in September. Steel producers think that this year general business and financial conditions will exercise a greater influence than the season before. Repair and replenishment requirements have been accumulating and the work cannot be delayed indefinitely. Possibly such a turn has already occurred in connection with tubular goods, as May showed slightly more tonnage than any of the first four months of the year, June brought a slight further increase and this month promises to equal or exceed June.

Fabricated structural steel lettings in May as reported by the Department of Commerce totaled 90,800 tons, or one-half above the average in the first four months of the year, and trade reports indicate that June ran about 40 per cent above May, but even at that they were scarcely one-half the average rate in 1929.

TIN PLATE HOLDING

Tin plate production in June was about 2,300,000 boxes, approximating the rate of the three months preceding instead of showing the usual falling off, as the packers' can season has been late. Shipments of automobile steel are now confined very largely to Ford, who is taking steel equal to more than 2 per cent of total steel making capacity. The railroads are taking practically no steel. In the last fortnight there has been elimination of some of the price concessions in certain finished products that survived after the general price stabilization movement got under way.

The Pittsburgh district scrap market has lost somewhat more in tone in the week, but market quotations are not marked down farther.

The iron foundry trade has been losing in activity since January and is even duller than the steel trade.

GRAIN FUTURES ACT UPHELD

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP.)—Constitutionality of the grain futures act, which requires grain traders to file with the Department of Agriculture full reports on their transactions, was upheld yesterday in a Federal Court decision.

A Chicago brokerage firm had questioned the legality of the measure. Judge James H. Wilkerson said in his ruling he believed there was no basis in the petitioner's claim that the act required public disclosure of matters of private business.

He said it has been established the government can regulate the business of grain exchanges and the futures act is within the range of federal power.

CRITICAL EYES -:- Watching the Photoplays From Seats of the Reviewers -:- NEW PICTURES

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Strange scene that one in the new cafeteria in the 50s . . . Where dozens of one-time headliners and Somebodies of Broadway now dine unashamed . . . Many of them used to patronize the higher-tariffed rendezvous—but that was a year ago—before the profession went to the depths . . . Seems to me that the sideshow freaks have wised up to the panhandling racket—considering that so many of the Broadway beggars have a stunt to offer or an instrument to play . . . The newest of the contingent is a legless woman . . . Must have been pretty in her day, too . . . And she has taste . . . For after sundown she switches to an attractive blue evening frock . . . I was wondering why they bunched themselves on Broadway the way they do . . . And get in each other's way . . . Instead of doing Park or Fifth Avenue where the people with money are supposed to dwell . . . So one of them explained why they stick to Broadway—because, it appears, the top-hat set and their ladies usually are speeding by in cars and if they are ankling along the pavements they just won't be bothered . . . On Broadway where nearly every passerby has felt hard times—they are more inclined to be sympathetic—and imagine that by giving away a coin or two—that it will ward off tougher luck, etc. . . . They certainly have the routine figured out.

The gals who live by their wits are going to extremes, again . . . But with little or no reward . . . One of the dolls of the Ziegfeld choir attempted a neat trick, but it didn't jell—and now the lads around the Canyon, who know about it, shun her like a plague . . . After courting briefly with one of the lads who happens to have a little coin she gave him a swift line of chatter about wanting to "get away from it all" and settle down with a fireplace and babies . . . And he fell quicker than a waitress who has been promised a screen test . . . The following day she arrived at his apartment, but not with the marriage license they got at the City Hall—instead, she brought a photostat copy with her . . . "What's the idea of making a copy of it before we use the real one?" he naturally queried . . . "Oh," she replied, "my lawyer has the original" . . . "What's the idea of seeing a lawyer before we are married?" he asked . . . "What's the matter, do you want to back out?" she growled, to which he said that he certainly did—and they melted on the spot . . . Yesterday he got word from her attorney that unless things were arranged, his client would have to sue for breach of promise . . . She probably will sue for 10 grand, and take 5 if he offers 3 . . . Such a fool and his honey shouldn't be parted.

That group of fourth-raters who have lingered in the profession all their careers probably can't believe it themselves . . . I mean those acts who never played better than four or five a day—one week a month—and for coffee-and-cake coin . . . At the audition of "Bottoms Up" the other sundown it was most amusing watching them do their stuff for the big-time showman, who has an idea that will finally bring them to what is left of Broadway . . . Ben Hecht has prepared a worthy series of lyrics to introduce them all, too—and their various specialties probably will take first honors from the critics . . . The producer summoned the very small-time booking agents and instructed them all to bring him the "worst acts you can find" . . . If they were at all capable or clever—then they wouldn't do! . . . They must be rotten, he said . . . "In fact," he yelled, "worse than rotten!" . . . But they lost little time getting the producer what he wanted—and he is excited about the batch . . . So that's what the Big-Time has come to? . . . Instead of striving to be good and amount to something, the Big Idea now is to be awful—and click . . . Perhaps the producer is trying to even matters with the critics—for when he offered the best talent—they got fussy and complained . . . At any rate, the one "rotten act" that is certain to get the biggest laugh will be that tramp, who does a series of somersaults across the stage . . . And just before he goes into his very last somersault which takes him into the wings—his pants fly off! . . . Haw!

Amusing dedication in that new book "Road Show" . . . The anonymous author dedicates it to his printer, who said: "Business is lousy—I'll take the chance" . . . There ought to be a place on the microphones for Tommy Lyman's brand of singing . . . Wonder when they'll wise up to that theatrical photographer, whose "art studies" fill the pages of those mags on the stands? . . . Some of the chorines are just getting hep to his secret camera in the walls, which catches the Eves when they are "themselves" . . . Very interesting that argument set forth by one of the foremost photographers of the mid-west . . . He says: If it was good once, it is good again and forever—Anything written by anybody who has a name as a comedian or humorist is funny—No new formula is good—The wallop must be in the last few words—Maybe he's right, I dunno . . . But what new formula? . . . I've seen some of the best pieces fall down at the end . . . Seems to me that any piece with a moment of charm in it is worth the price . . . However, the critic goes on to argue that our national humor is rapidly becoming hokumized—and that most of the clowns are desperate and make a living in the only way they know how . . . "In the midst of this situation," he continues, "the use for and the need of the newspaper column becomes more and more important . . . It will be, and perhaps already is, the only place where the person who values originality over commercial conformation can build his reputation."

Benchley discusses the good old days when a play opening in New York was exciting . . . "It was during these little sidewalk conferences (of the critics) that Kelcey Allen, the critic, got off many of his own quips," says Benchley, "which would next day be all over town, attributed to Frisco" . . . In those days, Allen fathered or relayed many a good quip, but so did Hershfield—and they often warred over this and that joke's paternity . . . But Allen had the inside track—for his quips were told to journalists and they are the town's historians . . . Therefore, when there was a feud over an anecdote, they invariably favored him . . . Once, however, when Alexander Woollcott credited the critic with a famous and funny gag, Hershfield proceeded to save his reputation as a wit by getting an affidavit prepared to prove that he was the first to circulate the gag in question . . . To such importance did the Broadway Gag grow—but one hears little of that nowadays . . . Allen's bags of gags are plentiful, however, and little wonder . . . When Rennold Wolf, one of the major clowns, died—Allen remembered most of his amusing observations—and passed them along to those of us who followed . . . But when I brought that subject up the other night—one of the staff of the Morning Telegraph which cradled Wolf, argued that he had searched and searched day and night over the R. W. files—and got very little for his pains . . . But Wolf wasn't a gag man. His criticisms contained his pungent pokes . . . He it was who, in reviewing a new musical show, said that the scenery was lovely—but the actors got in front of it!

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Vanity Fair of Today," modernized version of the Thackeray tale, with Myrna Loy appearing as Becky Sharpe, is to be the Sheridan Square attraction today and through Tuesday. Conway Tearle is prominent in the cast. It is first-run in this house.

* * *

"Dark Horse," which moved to the Davis yesterday after a successful week in the Warner, is in the Enright also today, the showing in the latter house to be for three days. Warren William, Bette Davis, Guy Kibbee and Vivienne Osborne have the prominent roles.

* * *

Monday the Avenue Cinema will have an English language talkie, a natural color film of the operetta, "Viennese Nights." Vivienne Segal and Alexander Gray have leading roles. Louise Fazenda also is in the cast.

* * *

Genevieve Tobin, having completed work in Hollywood in "Hollywood Speaks," is on the ocean, England-bound, to appear in Gloria Swanson's production of "Perfect Understanding," a film she is making entirely on the other side.

* * *

Rod LaRocque, of the films, has been engaged for a role in William A. Brady's coming production of a French comedy, "Domino," which will have its premiere in Atlantic City, August 1, and will play other Eastern towns prior to its New York opening, August 18.

Conway Tearle Cast By Masquers

Conway Tearle and Alan Mowbray are the first players cast for the Masquers' RKO Radio comedy "Two Lips and Juleps or Southern Love and Northern Exposure." Ted Sloman will direct.

3 Sensational Maids At Kennywood

Afternoon and evening performances at Kennywood Park today will conclude the engagement of Carver's diving horses. They will be followed immediately by the "Sensational Maids," three girls, who are assisted by a clown in an exhibition on a frail rigging 120 feet in the air. After today, the Maids will be seen afternoon and evening, daily. Swimming, amusements and other recreations are included on the daily program at Kennywood. Tomorrow's free concerts, afternoon and evening, will be played by Tom O'Shea's Band and the Dixieanna Entertainers.

School Girl Awarded Film Contract

Twenty-four hours after she arrived in Hollywood, Betty Furness, 16-year-old New York schoolgirl, was given her first part, in "Liberty Road." Miss Furness was handed a long term contract with Radio Pictures the day after she received her diploma from the exclusive Miss Bennett's School for Girls at Millbrook, N. Y., last week. Betty's graduation picture was shown to Lee Marcus, vice president of RKO, by Hal Phyfe, artist-photographer.

'Dark Horse' Comedy Moves to Davis

That politico-comedy, "Dark Horse," moved into the Davis yesterday after a week in the Warner. Warren William, in the lead, puts over politics' darkest horse with a fine array of electioneering in this satire. Guy Kibbee is the "spare-brained" candidate who rides to victory on a platform of "yes and again no." The cast also includes Bette Davis, Frank McHugh, Robert Warwick and Vivienne Osborne.

World Fliers Describe Plans

THE GLOBE TROTTER

James Mattern and Bennett Griffin are seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News as they start on their epochal flight. The Penn, Fulton and other theaters have it. The two pilots who broke all records in their flight across the Atlantic from New York to Berlin tell of their hopes of beating the time of Post and Gatty, and then climb into their big Lockheed-Vega to hop off for Harbor Grace. The 16,000 mile trail that they expect to traverse is illustrated by an animated map and a detailed description of the flight by The Globe Trotter.

John McCormack, famous Irish tenor, sings impressively and beautifully at the closing mass of the Eucharistic Congress in Phoenix Park, Dublin Ireland. Cardinal Lauri, Papal Legate, officiates at the ceremony which concludes one of the largest religious gatherings ever held.

BRITISH PILOTS STUNT

Great Britain's might in the air is demonstrated in pictures of the thirteenth exhibition of the Royal Air Force at Hendan, England. The scenes show huge and unusual formations and daring parachute jumping. The climax of the show comes with the realistic bombing of a miniature city in which the flight of the missiles can be followed by tracers of smoke.

One of the oddest and oldest of religious ceremonies is pictured in the little town of Nola, near Naples, Italy. It shows the townsfolk bearing through the streets enormous towers 90 feet high and weighing four tons each, to honor the memory of St. Paolino, who successfully warred against Turkish aggression centuries ago.

A daredevil quartet of acrobats, two girls and two men, thrill Atlantic City crowds with their performances on motorcycles on the top of a high tower.

THRILLS MARK RACE

Paris society, led by President Lebrun, forms part of the vast crowd of 200,000 fans that fill the Longchamps track to see the Grand Prix. Twenty of Europe's finest horses start and there is a thrilling finish between Baron Rothschild's Fog Horn and Lord Derby's Satrap, when suddenly from behind A. J. Duggan's Strip the Willow comes up and wins by a nose.

In the General Electric laboratories at Schenectady, N. Y., a new instrument is demonstrated which registers in light waves the various qualities of sound. Its reaction to the blowing of a whistle, a girl singing and a band playing causes the sound waves, which have been transformed into light beams to leap into all kinds of contortions.

Ann Harding In Warner

By MARY SHINE

Whimsical Ann Harding adds still another wreath to her many laurels in "Westward Passage," appearing in the Warner. She triumphs as the lovely third of the familiar triangle of two men and a woman.

As the wife of a rising young novelist, played temperamentally by Laurence Olivier, Ann is confronted with a galaxy of marital difficulties. First come financial worries, and then a baby girl her husband doesn't want. Their constant bickering leads to several brief separations, and finally divorce. Ann remarries, this time a former suitor, played by Irving Pichel, of whom her first husband has long been jealous.

The second marriage is a success, and Ann achieves the peace and calm she has wanted, yet she misses a little the sparkle, the excitement of her former life.

And now, ladies and gentlemen, as you are about to believe the matter settled thus, up pops husband No. 1 again. Ann, determined to resist his arduous wooing, books passage on a liner bound for home, husband and security. Of course, you know she meets Laurence on the boat, and he makes himself very charming, extremely entertaining.

Ann finally finds herself falling in love all over again, but is torn between the security of her second marriage and the tempestuous, bitter-sweet happiness of regaining her first. Which would you do? Go to see "Westward Passage," and even if it doesn't solve your problems, you'll be entertained.

Cast to Be Selected In 'Kiddie' Film

The cast of the all-talkie "Our Kiddie Comedy" is to be selected at the Stanley Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Actual work on the picture will begin Monday. Hundreds of Pittsburgh children have enrolled in the various Warner Brothers neighborhood theaters. The picture is being made under the auspices of Warner Brothers Theaters and the Philadelphia Company.

Stage Show Remains For Second Week

The management of the Patio, outdoor garden roadhouse above Aspinwall, is holding the current floor show, headed by Sammy Walsh as master of ceremonies, over for another week. In addition to Walsh, the show includes Cyrilla Tuite, radio singer; Donna and Darrell, ballroom dance team, and the Raymond brothers and Anne, novelty trio.

BITS OF LIFE All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

THEY TELL a story—and whence it came I have no idea—of the first violinist in a symphony orchestra. He was a great violinist and, if there was anything he didn't know about music, none was wise enough to discover it. He was good to his family, never struck his wife without making certain she was the right woman, took his weekly bath and didn't wait for weddings to have his hair cut. In other words, an unusual violinist.

There was but one trouble with the man. He made faces. Yes, my gentle friends, I mean just that. The man made faces. Regardless of the importance of the concert or the occasion, this violinist could always be counted upon to make the most absurd grimaces numerous times during the event.

It was all most amazing. Any number of people in the fashionable audiences had commented upon the fact. The man would play beautifully, harmoniously—and with something of genius in his touch. Then, suddenly, a disgusted look would cross his countenance.

He would resemble a cross between Ben Turpin and Joe the Goniff. His lips would screw up. His eyes would narrow. His ears would wriggle. He would shift uncomfortably. His bow would pause perilously in midair. His hair would suddenly seem to move. And if you can think of anything else a guy might reasonably do in disgust, just put it in yourself.

This went on for some years. He always found more than his share of work, because he was really a remarkable musician. Nobody ever talked to him about his one fault, because they felt that it might be the result of a nervous disorder. After all, the man had devoted his life to his violin. And if that made him give birth to looks of disgust—well, that was his own business.

Suddenly he struck a leader who was a trifle more inquisitive than the others. While admiring the other man's talents, this leader was strangely disturbed by the frequent looks of disgust on the violinist's kisser. So, after a concert one evening, he called this first violinist to one side.

"Winchellio," he said, "would you be angry with me if I asked you a question or two?"

The violinist shrugged his shoulders.

"Not at all," he returned. "Go to it. What's on your mind?"

"Well," said the head man, "let me begin this way. Don't you like the hall in which we are playing?"

"I should say I do," replied the other man promptly. "I've never played in a hall that I liked more. The acoustics are perfect, and so are the surroundings. It's all fine."

The leader tried again.

"Well," he repeated, "maybe you don't like the other members of the band. Is there any one in particular who grates on your nerves?"

Winchellio shook his dome.

"Positively not," he asserted. "Some of the men in this organization are the best musicians with whom I have ever worked. I'm positive that you couldn't have made a better selection of artists."

The leader hesitated.

"I hate to say this," he went on, "but perhaps it's I. Don't you like the way I conduct the orchestra?"

The violinist looked very perturbed.

"How can you say such a thing?" he asked. "You are positively magnificent. Of all the conductors for whom I have ever worked, you are unquestionably the best. Working for you is one of the most pleasant experiences I have ever had. What makes you ask me such a question?"

The conductor placed a hand on the other man's shoulder.

"Merely because you have worried me," he said. "I heard about you before you joined us—and—I've been watching you carefully ever since.

"The entire musical world wonders about you. What causes you to make those terrible faces?"

The violinist shifted uneasily.

"Well," he retorted, "I'll tell you. I hate music!" . . .

* * *

"THOSE cosmetic people have the wrong idea," insists Dave Murray. "No man cares whether a girl's lipstick is kissproof or not—as long as the girl herself isn't!" . . .

* * *

A NEW attraction opened in a New Jersey roadhouse the other night, and I sat with the proprietor during the latter part of the evening.

"I'm afraid this chap isn't going to be much of a success here," he sighed. "He received too many telegrams of congratulation."

I looked at the boss in amazement.

"What kind of nonsense is that?" I inquired. "Don't you figure that the more wires he receives the more popular he is? Or have I gone completely nuts?"

He talked as though he were leading a little child through the wilderness.

"You don't understand," he went on tiredly. "In this business if an artist or a band leader is a genuine attraction his fans and friends fight to get into a place the opening night. If he is not his friends send him congratulatory wires—and never come near the place. The more telegrams, my dear Mark, the bigger the flop."

We live and learn—sometimes. . . .

* * *

YOU MAY talk of gin and beer when you're safe and quartered—in the Democratic Party, but did you ever hear of such a break as befell this inmate of a nearby prison? I've written plenty of sob yarns about prisoners, but here's one of a different variety. Proving to you that, if you wait long enough, you then wait long enough.

A young man was sentenced to five years because, for several seasons, he had successfully tapped the tills of the chain of grocery stores for which he worked. Immediately after the sentence he was whisked away to the prison in question.

After a week of the customary routine he was called before the warden and told that his duties, from that day on, would be to work in the prison commissary. His knowledge of supplies and such, the warden said, fitted him for the position. And, since it was a far more pleasant task than the other prisoners had, the young man was duly grateful.

He was so grateful, in fact, that he went to work with a vengeance. He suggested improvements and demonstrated that they were practical. He placed the entire commissary on a business scale and saved the prison plenty of dough in the long run. He was a definite asset to the entire institution.

His term expired two weeks ago—but he's still in the prison, and he expects to stay there for a long time. For the prison engaged him to remain in charge of the commissary at a salary of $5,000 a year! . . .

Jean Harlow Goes Red In Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Mr. Seibel

One of those highly-spiced sexy things is on the screen at the Penn, where Jean Harlow plays "Red-Headed Woman" to the hot finish. This does not mean that there is anything particularly offensive in the picture—the audience is supposed to supply that by its imagination.

As for Katherine Brush, who wrote the book, and Anita Loos, who did the scenario, they used very little imagination. It is a bald, crude story of a brazen hussy who starts out to wreck homes and capture a rich man. Her cave-man style of courtship might be amusing in Anita Loos comedy, it is rather nauseating when presented as a serious study of life. Chester Morris has to be the victim of this Titian Venus, and he deserves a lot of pity. Lelia Hyams is the much enduring wife, who gets a divorce, and Una Merkel does the best work in the film as the comic pal of the red-headed vamp.

This hard-boiled ten-cent Cleopatra role gives Jean Harlow an opportunity to wear well-fitting hosiery and to rip out some red-hot passionate vocabulary, but the story is uninteresting and the characters all overdone. At the finish everybody is in Paris—you know it's Paris because there's a horse-race, and everybody is at the race. How or why they got to Paris is left to the imagination of the audience. The audience has to supply most of the imagination anyway, for "Red-Headed Woman" is just passionate piffle sprinkled with marshmallow and paprika.

Vanity

Myrna Loy is seen in the leading feminine role of the film, "Vanity Fair," which opens in the Sheridan Square today.

Cagney Boxer On Stanley Screen

By JAMES A. BAUBIE

James Cagney throws gags at his audience, punches interfering males and delivers his kisses in person to his female admirers in his latest fight picture, "Winner Take All," which opened yesterday in the Stanley. And you can't help liking this cocky coalescence of conceit, slang and socks.

The story, authored by Gerald Beaumont, starts vigorously in a fight ring and ends in a high hat, so to speak, with Cagney's face looking like a real palooka's.

A lot of things happen between the first and last scenes. Cagney, the coming fighter, goes west to escape cocktails and women and, naturally, meets the appealing Marion Nixon, who is very pretty as Peggy, a former night club entertainer.

With promises of this and that on his lips, Cagney returns to New York to win fame and fortune for Peggy.

But a seductive blonde takes him for the count.

This picture is all Cagney, and rightfully so. He handles his lines like a "pug." And he handles his gloves in the same fashion. There is not that artificiality about the fight scenes, that so often creeps in to spoil good boxing pictures.

One of the biggest laughs comes early in the picture, in the title scene, when Cagney and his opponent are both knocked out in a glorious whirl of arms and heads. Cagney staggers about long enough to be the winner who takes all.

ONLY THREE WINS BY KREMER, BRAME

EVEN ALLOWING FOR the utmost possibilities of the Pittsburgh club's full strength on paper, no one dreamed in the early spring that July would find the Pirates in the first place. And such a development would have appeared even farther beyond the boundaries of the possible if it could have been foreseen that neither Remy Kremer nor Irvin Brame would pitch nine innings up to midseason, and that the contribution of the pair up to this stage would total only three victories.

Remy Kremer

Kremer has started five games and the only time he came close to going the route was when he lost out with one man down in the ninth inning at Boston. Brame has started only twice and was lifted both times. Kremer has pitched only 29 innings all told and Brame only 22 in almost 13 weeks. In view of the fact that these two veterans have been practically a total loss, all the greater credit is due the youngsters on the roster for the present proud position of the club. It's the young or new pitchers who have put the team where it is, and judging from Kremer's latest disappointing exhibition yesterday they'll also have to shoulder the contract of keeping it there, except for the help that Meine gives.

SURPRISING AS IT was, the appointment of Max E. Hannum as basketball coach at Carnegie Tech to fill the vacancy caused by the not-at-all-surprising departure of Ralph (Buzz) Hogan won a great deal of favorable comment in local floor circles. Max, though 12 years an official, and one of the best in the game, never reached stardom as a player.

But neither did Joe McCarthy in baseball. And the East has known one or two successful grid coaches who never played football. Hannum has common sense, up-to-the-minute ideas and a most likable personality that will make every player do his best for him. He knows basketball thoroughly even though he has never taught the game. It's a combination that may bring big results. An army of personal friends will be pulling for Max's success.

CARRIED AWAY BY Jimmy Foxx's home-run prowess, some of the players around the American League circuit are going so far as to declare that the Mackian slugger is hitting the ball harder and farther than Babe Ruth did in 1927.

Bucky Harris, Tiger pilot, refuses to subscribe. He admits that Foxx is doing a great job and is hitting them farther than Ruth is driving them today, but says Jimmy hasn't the power that Babe put behind his drives five years ago.

IT IS REPORTED that steps for a later opening of the major league season in 1933 will be taken at the special meeting of the American League to be held in Cleveland next Monday. A resolution will be offered recommending to the National League that the opening of the season next year be put back until April 18, the latest inaugural since the post-war campaign of 1919, and the big races be wound up on October 1, which would mean putting the world series back into a longer conflict with the football season than at present. The movement has a double object—to avoid some of the usually unfavorable April weather and to save the club owners some money by making shorter training trips possible. It is proposed to play 154 games, as usual, which will call for a lot of crowding.

Bill McKechnie

IF BILL M'KECHNIE could have his way, the world series would be made a whole lot longer than it is at present. Like many other baseball men, McKechnie considers the best-four-out-of-seven series too short to be a real test.

"My Pirates beat the Senators in one of them," McKechnie said, "but I still think it isn't much of a test. Luck and the breaks too often decide the issue. Personally, if people really wanted to find the better team, I'd say a series of 22 games would be the thing.

"AS TO WORKING it out, I guess it would take considerable planning," McKechnie continued. "The playing schedule would have to be shortened a bit, and some financial figuring would be necessary. Maybe it would be worth it, though.

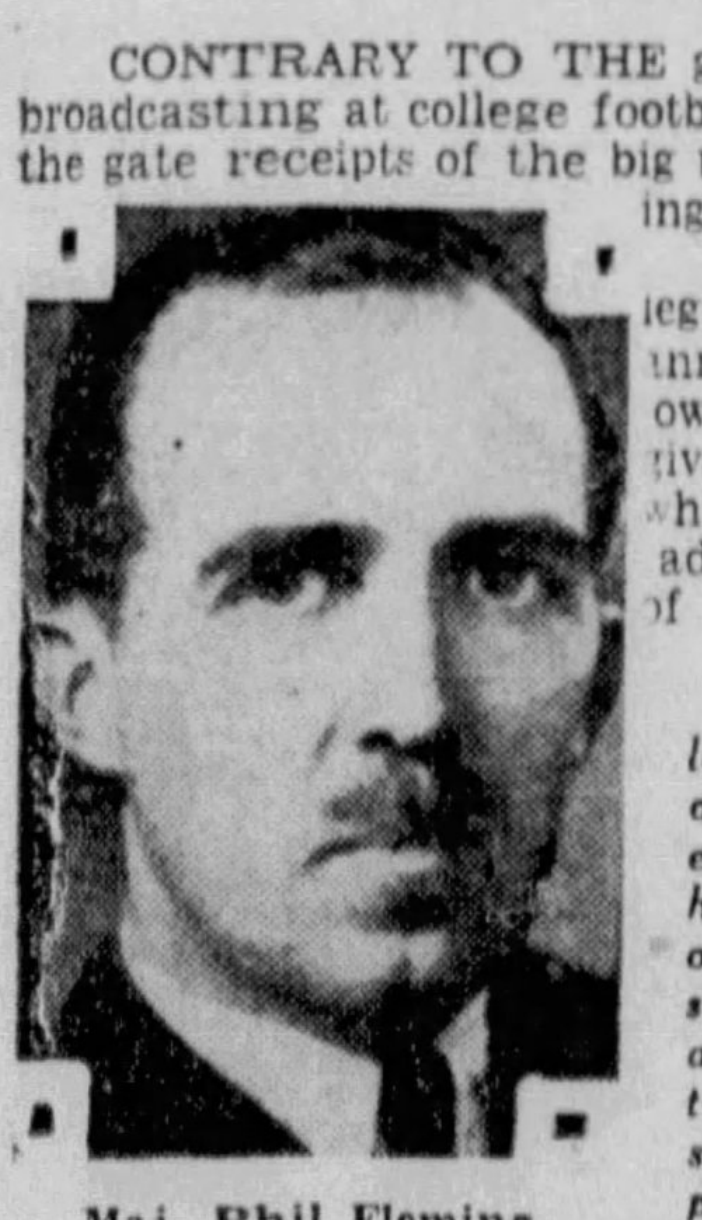
"On the question of dividing the money, well, say you gave the players the first seven games' receipts to whack up. They'd probably be cheerful about working at their regular salary rates for the remainder of the series. The whole thing might not work out, but if it did we could produce some real world champions."

THE NEW ELECTRICAL photo-timing device for footraces is great in the case of a disputed finish, but the Pacific Coast votes it as rough on the human timers because it makes them look bad. It shows that sometimes they're too fast and sometimes they're too slow. In the recent I. C. 4-A. meet, refereed by Gus Kirby, the inventor of the apparatus, the device caught Bob Kiesel in 9.93 seconds for the 100-yard dash, whereas the human timers got him in 9.8. In the quarter-mile run the error was the other way. According to the official timers, Ben Eastman ran that distance in 48.5 seconds, but the machine gave him 48.27.

THIS WAS THE first demonstration of the electrical timer in a meet of the importance of the I. C. 4-A. carnival. Previously it had been given only one public trial.

The device is a sort of two-eyed camera. It catches the exact instant of the start of a race through an attachment with the starter's gun, and it times and photographs the finish. They say it can't go wrong, and the way it has differed from human timing in the figures it has already turned in makes track followers wonder just how many of the world records now on the books were actually made.

CONTRARY TO THE general impression, the banning of radio broadcasting at college football games for 1932 wasn't done to protect the gate receipts of the big universities, according to Maj. Phil Fleming, manager of athletics at West Point.



Maj. Phil Fleming

The Eastern Association was the first to legislate against broadcasting, and it was announced some of the Big Ten would follow. Notre Dame chiefs say they are glad to give the details of all their games to fans who cannot attend and will continue the radio custom. So will Ohio State and most of the clubs in the pro league.

"WE COULDN'T HANDLE any larger crowds, as we nearly always sell out for our big games," Maj. Fleming explained to Bill Corum. "Broadcasting hasn't hurt us, and it hasn't hurt the other so-called big teams. The smaller schools were the ones that complained, and the action was taken to protect them. They reported that the fans, instead of turning out to see their teams play, were sitting at home and listening to the big games on the radio. Since football receipts pay for practically all other college sports, you can easily see that this created a serious situation at those schools. Physical training is as much a part of the modern college course as mental training and to have physical training you must have gymnasiums, playing fields and sports equipment. These cost money, and football has to pay for them. Thus we really were forced to stop broadcasting in self-protection."

WATROUS PACES FIELD WITH 142 SCORE

OTTAWA, July 9.—(AP.)—Al Watrous, of Birmingham, Mich., titleholder 10 years ago, paced the field in the Canadian Open golf championship today as the 77 survivors prepared for the 36-hole dash to the finish line.

Two steady rounds of 72 and 70 gave Watrous a total of 142 at the halfway point and a two stroke advantage over Lighthorse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, with the defending champion, Walter Hagen, of Detroit, another stroke to the rear.

Although these three held the vantage points for the final rounds, there were a dozen other stars still in threatening positions.

Four strokes behind the 1922 titleholder were Leo Diegel, four-times winner of the championship; MacDonald Smith, who won in 1926; Tom Kerrigan, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Olin Dutra, of Brentwood, Cal., runnerup to Hagen in last week's Western Open.

Another stroke behind, at 147, were Mortie Dutra, Ed Dudley, Wiffy Cox, Horton Smith and the leading Canadian, Andy Kay, of Toronto.

George Von Elm, Detroit's businessman golfer, and Walter Smithers, Ottawa, occupied thirteenth place with 148, while Phil Perkins, former British amateur king, and Jimmy Johnstone, Toronto, had 149s.

Further back and probably out of the running were Bobby Cruickshank and Johnny Farrell, 150; Joe Kirkwood 151, Joe Jurado 152, Bill Burke and Tony Manero 153, Emmett French 154, and Tom Creavy 156.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BUILDING MOVED BY 18 MEN—On October 14, 1930, officials of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company and about 300 onlookers witnessed the start in the moving and turning of a 22,000,000 pound, eight-story building in Indianapolis—a most unusual procedure for a structure of that size. It was moved a distance of 52 feet in one direction, and then given a 90-degree turn so it faced another street. And all this was accomplished without interrupting the phone, elevator, heat, water or electric services, and the actual moving was done by only 18 men. These men operated the huge ratchet screw jacks working against the I-beams, rolling the building over a specially constructed platform of steel rails. The building was permanently situated in its new location in about six weeks. DEFEATED AND ELECTED AT THE SAME TIME—When Jack Lawlor ran for election as a member of the Board of Freeholders of San Francisco, in 1930, the returns in the office of the Registrar of Voters showed that on the unofficial count he was defeated, the vote being 30,308, but the official count elected him by a vote of 30,260—48 less than the count on which he was tentatively defeated.

TOMORROW—THE STIRRUP DRINK.

PIE TRAYNOR TO REMAIN ON BENCH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Their colors flying high above the Forbes Field ramparts on top of the Giant seige, the Pirates today awaited another enemy from Greater New York. Max Carey led his Dashing Dodgers into our midst this morning, the Flatbush boys to disport themselves in three afternoons in the Oakland Orchard. Sandwiched in the series is a battle which will take the two clubs a-flyin' to Brooklyn tomorrow. In other words, the teams are to fight it out in a four-game series.

Indications point toward a Dazzy Vance performance this afternoon as the series gets under way. But if Boss Carey does throw the fast-ball veteran at the Buccos, Dazzy will find a fair fast-ball pitcher ferninst him in the person of Glenn Spencer.

TRAYNOR REMAINS ON BENCH

The Pirates will have to do battle again without the services of Capt. Pie Traynor, who did not appear on the scene yesterday until the ninth when he came through like Frank Merriwell. Traynor's bruised index finger of his throwing hand will keep him out of action for a couple of days. It was mangled by a wild throw from Heinie Meine in Thursday's game. An X-ray picture disclosed no broken bones. Meantime Tommy Thevenow will prevail at third where he is much at home.

The league leaders made it four out of five from the Giants as they won a thrilling fight in the finale yesterday. The score was 8 to 7. Traynor scored the winning run in the ninth on the end of a combination of intense events. Batting for Leon Chagnon, Traynor singled. L. Waner bunted and when Pitcher Mooney made an attempt to flag Traynor both runners were safe.

The Giant strategists set their first defense with the idea of stopping Traynor at third on an expected bunt. Shortstop Eddie Moore held Pie close to second. Manager Terry played closeup and apparently Lindstrom was under instructions to take a toss from either Terry or Mooney. P. Waner dumped the ball between the pitcher and third baseman, and, when Mooney fielded it he found nobody near third, but Pie, and he had no desire to throw the ball to Harold Joseph.

VAUGHN'S HIT ENDS GAME

So the bases were jammed and none was out. With the count three and two on Vaughan, the youngster singled over second to end a very exciting game.

Dave Barbee, batting in Traynor's notch, led the Buccos to their victory with three doubles, but Earl Grace's bat was just as potent. Earl sank a homer in the right field stands and he came through with a single that scored a run.

Remy Kremer blanked the Giants for five rounds and the Buccos were leading by seven runs when the enemy jumped on the veteran for five markers. But Remy was put in a bad spot by Vaughan, who failed to get the head man as he and Tony Piet tried for a double play, where one out should have been made certain. The hits that followed this "break" took Kremer out in favor of Chagnon, who stopped the rally for the time being. The Giants rode to a deadlock in the ninth.

LLOYD MISJUDGES HIT

Lindstrom greeted Chagnon with a single in the ninth and with one run needed to tie, Manager Terry spurned a sacrifice. Bill hit a remarkably long liner to center. L. Waner misjudged the drive momentarily and it soared over his head against the fence. Lindstrom, thinking Lloyd would catch the rocket, tagged up at first with

RAIN PREVENTS BOUTS AGAIN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

A heavy downpour shortly before ringtime last night resulted in the second postponement of the all-heavyweight boxing card topped off by George Panka and Pietro Corri at Hickey Park, Millvale, and, as a result, it has been put back to Monday night.

Hickey Park also will function next Thursday, a day after a show at Greenlee Field, on the Hill.

The Meyers Bowl in North Braddock plans to resume operations one week from Monday night.

Between Rounds

Davy Grove has been matched with Tiger Joe Randall and Mose Butch with Charley Van Reeden, of Jacksonville, Fla., in the first two 10-round bouts at Greenlee Field next Wednesday night. Charley Baxter meets Sammy Dorfman, of New York, in the main event and there will be one six-round preliminary.

Battling Gizzy and Jimmy Thomas, stablemates, will box in two 10-rounders at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Thursday night, the former probably against Chico Cisneros and the latter against Jimmy Vaughn, of St. Michaels, Pa.

Charley Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight champion, is in England to box Larry Gains, Negro holder of the Canadian heavyweight title.

The first "mixed" wrestling bout between two major rival cliques in Pennsylvania will be staged at the Phillies' baseball park in Philadelphia next Friday night, with Gus Sonnenberg, of the Boston group, meeting Dick Shikat, of Jack Curley's New York syndicate.

Bernie Conway, former boxer, of Johnstown, is handling a string of mittmen he would like to show here, including Johnny Chiodo, the featherweight; Gene Baker and Ike McFowler, heavyweights; K. O. Miller and Joey Adams, featherweights, James Young and Harry Saye, middleweights; Walter Strapple, 132-pounder; Walter Livingston, welterweight; Karo Angeloff, lightweight, and Joey Incosky, flyweight.

CHARITY POLO GAME

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP.)—Two high goal polo combinations, led by Tommy Hitchcock and Cecil Smith, will ride for charity in a special match at International Field, Meadow Brook, today. Hitchcock will captain the Sands Point team and Smith will lead Meadow Brook quartet.

BANNEROT WINS W. VA. TITLE

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 9.—(AP.)—Fred Bannerot and Miss Fritzie Stifel are the West Virginia state amateur golf champions for the year.

Bannerot, formerly of Pittsburgh, and now of Charleston, displayed a fine brand of golf to defeat F. C. Crum, of Huntington, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final round yesterday. This was Bannerot's second tourney try. Last year he finished second.

The woman's final found Miss Stifel pitted against her mother, the same as last year, and again Mrs. Stifel succumbed to the brilliant golf displayed by her daughter, 5 up.

Jim Londos Ordered To Meet Lewis

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission ordered Jim Londos, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as the world heavyweight wrestling champion, to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis in defense of his title.

Londos will be given 60 days in which to sign contracts for the match or have his title vacated, the commission stated. This stand was brought about at the weekly meeting of the commission here yesterday.

JURGES MUST APPEAR

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP.)—Bill Jurges, Chicago Cub shortstop, who was shot in the right side and hand by Violet Valli, who also wounded herself on Wednesday, must appear in court against Miss Valli, who is being charged with intent to kill. The trial will come to court next Friday. Jurges still is in the hospital where he was warned by Judge John Sbarbaro that he would be subpeaned if he refused to appear.

DUBUQUE KEEPS TEAM

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 9.—(AP.)—The Dubuque club, of the Mississippi Valley League, will keep its franchise, and the league will continue as an eight-club loop, it was decided at a meeting of the league here yesterday. The league also voted a split season, the second-half starting with today's games.

Carnera to Box Jack Gross Again

NEW YORK, July, 9.—(AP.)—A bout between Primo Carnera, giant Italian, and Jack Gross, of Philadelphia, for Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, July 20, was sanctioned by the New York State Athletic Commission here yesterday.

The commission also approved a Benny Leonard-Paulie Walker bout for the same place, July 27.

LEGION RIVALS CLASH TODAY

Two district champions clash this afternoon in what promises to be a hard-fought game in the American Legion junior baseball championship eliminations. They are the South Hills aggregation, winner in District 36, and Swissvale, champion in the Thirty-third district. They will meet on the Monongahela avenue grounds, Swissvale, with the game scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock.

Other district champions decided in Allegheny County are Curtisville, Section 32; Lawrenceville, Section 34, and East Liberty, Section 35.

Other games arranged by the committee, all scheduled at 6:30 p. m., follow:

July 12—South Hills at East Liberty; Curtisville at Swissvale.
July 14—East Liberty at South Hills.
July 15—Swissvale at Curtisville.
July 19—Swissvale at East Liberty; Curtisville at South Hills.

Drivers Ready For Race at Arden

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 9.—A field of 16 drivers has qualified for the 100-mile dirt track automobile race to be run off at the Arden Downs track here this afternoon. The race originally was scheduled for July Fourth, but was postponed on account of rain.

Jimmy Jiarusso, of Pittsburgh, who was injured qualifying, has been dismissed from the hospital and will be able to face the starter. The race will get under way at 4 o'clock, Pittsburgh time, preceded by three amateur boxing bouts.

The qualifiers for the race:

ASPINWALL BEATEN

MERCER, Pa., July 9.—The Mercer Independents defeated Aspinwall 5 to 4, in a well-played game here yesterday.

Nick Altrock
Baseball's Humorist
Says:

WASHINGTON, July 9.—I see the Democratic candidate for President is going to do something for the Forgotten Man. It's about time. You know who the Forgotten Man is, don't you? He's the bird that leads off the inning with a triple and then stays right there on first base while his teammates strike out or pop up infield flies.

Nick Altrock

If Gov. Roosevelt can bring this guy across the plate with a run, he's elected now.

Personally, I always thought the Forgotten Man was the Vice President of the U. S. right after the inauguration. It isn't correct to call him the Forgotten Man, however, because the Vice President doesn't even get to first base.

RICKEY BLAMED FOR CARDS' FALL

BRAVES DEFEAT REDBIRDS, 6 TO 1

Associated Press.

Branch Rickey, straw boss of the Cardinals, undoubtedly assured the National League a swell race, both artistically and financially, when he began tossing parts from his championship machine here and there a few months ago, but it looks now like he might have tossed not wisely but too well.

The Cardinals, bereft of such stars as Hafey, Grimes and Rhem, never have figured in the current race and it is extremely doubtful they will. Seven times the Redbirds have managed to reach the .500 mark, but each time they have fallen back.

CLUB LACKS PUNCH

Bill Hallahan alone of the pitching staff has done consistently good work, and the club is lacking the punch that kept it at the top the last two years.

The champs almost suffered the crowning ignominy yesterday when Bob Brown, Boston's crack rookie, set them down, 6 to 1, on four hits. They averted a shutout only when Jimmy Wilson singled Collins across the plate after two were out in the ninth. Dizzy Dean gave Brown a tussle for seven innings, yielding only four hits, but the Braves had a big time with his successor, Paul Derringer.

The Pittsburgh Pirates put over a run in the ninth to defeat the Giants, 8 to 7, to make it four out of five for the series, while Bob Smith pitched Chicago to a 6-to-4 triumph over the Phillies, who bunched their five errors in one inning to give the Cubs three runs. Brooklyn handed Cincinnati a 15-to-5 trimming.

Earl Combs' home run with two aboard gave the Yankees a 3-to-2 decision over Detroit and knocked the Tigers into third place in the American League. Ruffing let the Tigers down with six hits and struck out 10.

MACKS WIN TWO

The Athletics won two games from Chicago, 6 to 4, and 11 to 2, and took over second place, six and a half games back of the Yanks. Jimmy Foxx clouted his thirtieth homer in the first tilt.

Although hit hard, Wes Ferrell stuck it out to turn in his sixteenth victory as Cleveland beat Washington again, 6 to 5. Joe Vosmik's single in the eighth, with the bases loaded, did the trick.

Ed Gallagher, former Boston College star, made his major league debut with the Boston Red Sox and was given a rousing reception by St. Louis. Before he could be got out of there in the second inning the Browns had scored five runs and were on their way to an 8-to-4 victory.

John Hennessey, Stoefen Advance

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9.—(AP.)—Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, and John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, the favorites, won straight set triumphs to advance another notch toward the Minneapolis invitational tennis tournament singles championship with completion of quarter-final play yesterday.

Stoefen defeated Earl Reynolds, of Vicksburg, Miss., 6-1, 6-2, while Hennessey disposed of Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-3, 6-1. John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., won from Charles Britzius, Minneapolis, 6-3, 6-2, and Weston Painter, Minneapolis, defeated James Young, Minneapolis, 6-3, 6-4.

Injured Pie Wins Game

DR. W. L. MARKS — CAPT. PIE TRAYNOR

Although he was unable to start the final game of the series with the Giants at Forbes Field yesterday, Capt. Pie Traynor became the hero of the battle when he batted for Pitcher Chagnon in the ninth inning and singled and later scored the winning run of the 8-7 battle. Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture shows Dr. Marks examining the injured index finger before the game.

PIRATES PLAY DODGERS

the idea of advancing after a catch. So Fred got only as far as second and Terry had to remain on first with the winning run.

Barbee turned in a fine catch to stave impending defeat. After Ott had sacrificed, Hogan hit to the scoreboard. Dave flung himself against the barricade and caught the ball. The tying run went over, but Dave held Terry on second and Chagnon got the next hitter. Schumacher, Bell and Mooney followed Hubbell to the slab.

The home team failed to enhance their lead of two and one-half games over the Cubs and Braves as their rivals each were victorious.

Chilly Sauce

When Paul Waner laid down his safe and highly important bunt in the ninth he prevented the snapping of a hitting streak. Paul has batted safely in 15 games.

Pie Traynor's pinch single served a similar purpose. Pie has hit into safe territory in his last 16 contests, but the string may be broken today as he is slated for bench duty.

Traynor has batted in the pinch role only three times in his long career. It is hard to take him out of the lineup; when he is out he generally is in such shape that he cannot go to the plate.

"Come on, Traynor—Come on Traynor," sang 2,500 little boys when he picked his bat, and went to the plate. The inspiration was just right for Pie and he smacked a single to right that grew into the winning run.

Ralph Costello, of 18 Summit street, Mt. Oliver, was the young man who nailed Earl Grace's homer when it dropped among the fans. Gus Miller, head usher, made the youngster smile when he presented him a bat to go with the ball.

Southern Netters In Final Round

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 9.—(AP.)—Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, meet today in the final of the Southern tennis tournament's men's singles.

Sutter, top seeded player, gained entrance to the final by defeating Dan Murray, of New Orleans, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, and Grant defeated Wilmer Hines, 7-9, 1-6, 5-7, to receive the right to meet Sutter.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League racqueters terminate a four weeks' layoff from team play with a complete card of loop tussling on local lots this afternoon. Time out for the Western Pennsylvania championships and for Fourth of July week-end of Westmoreland County action brings club title contenders well along toward mid-season with less than half of the circuit campaign wound up. Today, however, marks the midway station for Section I seekers of the Davis Keg, while next Saturday offers a similar point in the Section II chase, which got under way a bit late this spring.

B. F. Arkle, Wheeling star, who recently won the Western Pennsylvania men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles crowns here, may be out of tennis for the remainder of the season. Arkle was injured in his match with Irving Goodman, of Pitt, at Greensburg last Sunday, but stayed in the match and defeated the latter, 6-1, 6-4. After an examination by Dr. Dave O'Loughlin at the club house, Arkle entered the Pittsburgh Hospital, where it was discovered he was suffering from a sacroilliac strain. Hospital attendants recommended that he stay out of competition until next spring to safeguard against a recurrence of the ailment. Arkle now is at his home under care of a physician.

Approximately 33 teams will begin play in an invitation doubles tournament on the grass courts of the Fox Chapel Golf Club this afternoon. The tourney will be concluded Sunday of next week.

Five teams have been seeded for the tournament, as follows: No. 1, Dr. William S. McElroy and Dr. David L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A.; No. 2, W. McCook Reed and Paul D. Hicks, Edgewood; No. 3, Sam Harbison and Charles Lockhart, Allegheny Country Club; No. 4, Frank Broida, Harvard, and Irvin Goodman, Pitt; No. 5, Dr. John L. O'Loughlin and William L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A.

DORMONT PLAYS IN BENEFIT

Honus Wagner and his All-stars will cross bats with the Dormont nine, City League champions, in a benefit game for the Dormont unemployment fund on the latter's diamond this evening. Wagner announced that he would take part in the contest. George Stricker and Dan Daugherty will umpire the fray.

With their series deadlocked, the Pittsburgh Crawfords will engage the New York Black Yankees in a doubleheader at Greenlee Field this afternoon. Manager Oscar Charleston, of the locals, intends to send Paige and Kincannon to the mound to combat the invaders. The first game will start at 4 p. m.

Tomorrow afternoon at Greenlee Field, the Homewood club and the J. L. Thomas nine will meet. The teams each have won two games of the four-game series, and rivalry between th clubs is intense. The game will start at 3 p. m.

Paige turned in a no-hit, no-run game for the Crawfords in the second battle of their doubleheader with the Black Yankees at Greenlee Field yesterday, to win, 6-0. The victory gave the Crawfords an even split, the New Yorkers taking the first contest, 9-7. Paige fanned 11 and walked three.

ARLINGTON CUP RACE TODAY

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP.)—Seven thoroughbreds were in the field for the third running of the $20,000 added Arlington Gold Cup today, but as far as the wagering was concerned, six of them were after the place and show money—for Equipoise was in the race.

Winner of six straight starts, Equipoise was so much of a standout that the overnight odds had him at 1 to 4, and he was just about conceded the big end of the purse. The event was at one mile and a quarter and weight for age, meaning that the unbeaten Whitney chestnut was down to carry 126 pounds.

Jamestown, which had tried without success to take Equipoise at Arlington Park, ducked the issue in favor of a $1,400 race, but George D. Widener's Mate was back for another try. Others named were Tred Avon, S. W. Larbot's four-yearold filly, which finished less than a length back of Equipoise in the Stars and Stripes handicap Monday; M. L. Schwartz' Gusto, winner of the American Derby, Plucky Play, Dr. Freeland and Pittsburgher.

MORGAN BEATS MANDELL

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—(AP.)—Two ex-greats of the ring met here last night, and Tod Morgan, Seattle, 143¾ pounds, won an easy decision over Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., 148. Mandell was former lightweight champion and Morgan held the junior-lightweight crown.

DIANA FISWICK WINS

LE TOUQUET, France, July 9.—(AP.)—Miss Diana Fiswick, of England, defeated Miss Molly Gourlay, also of England, in the 36-hole final for the French women's open golf title here yesterday.

Pittsburgh, July 9, 1932.

NOTICE is hereby given that the following ordinance was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on May 6, 1932, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said city, without petition of property owners to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys or part thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 776.

AN ORDINANCE authorizing and directing the grading, paving, curbing and otherwise improving of California avenue, from the first angle north of Sedgwick street to the first angle in Sedgwick street south of California avenue, including the construction of a storm sewer for the drainage thereof and the laying of water lines and appurtenances thereon, including, as may be necessary, the grading of approaches on streets affected thereby and sinking of exploratory test holes; letting a contract or contracts therefor, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby, and providing, further, for the payment of the city's share thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that California avenue, from the first angle north of Sedgwick street to the first angle in Sedgwick street south of California avenue, be graded, paved, curbed and otherwise improved, a storm sewer for the drainage thereof be constructed and water lines and appurtenances be laid thereon, and that, as may be necessary, approaches be graded on streets affected thereby and exploratory test holes be sunk.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading, paving, curbing and otherwise improving of said street between said points, including the construction of a storm sewer for the drainage thereof and the laying of water lines and appurtenances thereon, including, as may be necessary, the grading of said approaches and sinking of exploratory test holes; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said Acts of Assembly and Ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of $40,000.00, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the city's share thereof shall be chargeable to and payable from Bond Fund No. 293, Street Bonds, 1928.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given than an ordinance, Bill No. 1202, has been introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, July 8, 1932, entitled:

"An Ordinance amending an Ordinance entitled, 'An Ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating and determining the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purposes; conferring certain powers upon the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals; and imposing penalties,' approved August 9, 1923, by changing the Zone Map, Sheet Z—N10—E15, so as to change from an "A" Residence Use District to a Commercial Use District all that certain property at the southwest corner of Center and South Aiken avenues, having frontages of 100.12 feet on South Aiken avenue and 50.00 feet on Center avenue and preserving a uniform depth of 50.00 feet parallel with South Aiken avenue.

And that a public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Pittsburgh to consider said ordinance at the Council Chamber, Fifth Floor, City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2:00 o'clock p. m., on Wednesday, August 3, 1932.

ROBT. CLARK,
City Clerk.

Davis, 61, secretary and auditor of the Pittsburgh, Allegheny and McKees Rocks Railroad, a subsidiary of the Pressed Steel Car Company, who died yesterday in his home, 710 Florence avenue, Avalon. The services will be held at his home and burial will be in the Uniondale Cemetery Monday morning. Mr. Davis was in the employ of the Pressed Steel Car Company 32 years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Avalon. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Grace B. Covert Davis; a daughter, Evelyn; a brother, Norman, of Yankton, S. D., and two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Gibson, of Bellevue, and Mrs. George McCoy, of Plymouth, Ind.

Walter W. Buch, Sr.

Funeral services for Walter W. Buch, Sr., 43, shoe merchant, of Library road, Bethel Township, who died Thursday will be held Monday morning in St. Mary's of Mercy Catholic Church, Third avenue and Ferry street. Born in the Point district, he had been a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh and suburbs, being connected with the Book Shoe Company. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Marie Buch; three sons, Walter W., Jr., Regis and August, and three daughters, Mrs. Helen Collins, Mrs. Thelma Opferman and Marie A. Busch, all of Pittsburgh.

McCall Funeral.

Funeral services for Miss Mary E. McCall, 82, retired school teacher, who died yesterday at the home of William H. Bell, 800 Walbridge street, West End, will be held at the Bell home Monday. For many years she was principal of the Andrews Public School. She was a graduate of the old Pittsburgh Academy, and a member of the Presbyterian Church. She leaves Mrs. Bell and Miss Mary Weidman, nieces.

Germany to Pay France, France To Pay Nobody
By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The diplomats have agreed at Lausanne.

That means nothing. They agreed at Geneva and Paris too.

And with every agreement they get more disagreeable.

Germany will pay France. And France will pay nobody.

Lausanne also fixes the war guilt. Slaps it right between Uncle Sam's shoulderblades. They would still be fighting and having a lot of fun if we hadn't stepped into it.

Does America collect any share of the reparations?

Sure, we get the same even break the oldtime street car conductor gave the company.

He threw the nickels in the air, and every nickle that stayed on the bell rope belonged to the management.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County, Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an "Act relating to Allegheny County," approved on the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendment to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1866, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several wards of the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, Boroughs and Townships will be open and I will be prepared to receive the County, Road, Poor, Bond Interest, etc. Park, Personal Property and Poll taxes for the year 1932 on May 2nd.

Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July only at 5% discount, during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be forwarded promptly upon written request if furnished name, location by Ward in the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton, or Boroughs or Townships. If statement of Personal Property or Poll Tax is desired, give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payment may be made in cash at Treasurer's Office or through mail by Check or Money Order (payable to Robert S. Cain, County Treasurer) and mailed to Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipt.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, 1932, nor will taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1932.

Delay in delivery by mail or messenger will not be considered an excuse for nonpayment before expiration of discount or face period of payment.

ROBERT S. CAIN,
April 30, 1932. County Treasurer.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

Official—Pittsburgh 111

Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on June 20, 1932, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said City, without petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 1089.

AN ORDINANCE—Widening McCasin street, in the Fifteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Greenfield avenue to the southerly line of the Blanche Lytle Plan of Lots and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that McCasin street, in the Fifteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Greenfield avenue (formerly Wheatland street) to the southerly line of the Blanche Lytle Plan of Lots be and the same is hereby widened so that the street as widened shall lie between the following described lines:

The westerly line shall coincide with the westerly line of the street as laid out in the Blanche Lytle Plan of Lots of record in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Plan Book Volume 8, page 206.

The easterly line shall coincide with the easterly line of the street as laid out in the Aqua Vista Plan of Lots of record in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Plan Book Volume 28, pages 195 to 197, inclusive.

SECTION 2. The Department of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said McCasin street, in the Fifteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Greenfield avenue to the southerly line of the Blanche Lytle Plan of Lots to be widened in conformity with the provisions of Section 1 of this ordinance.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from the properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

NOTICE is hereby given that the following ordinance was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on June 27, 1932, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said city, without petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 1099.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the grading, paving and curbing of Sussex avenue, from Woodbourne avenue to the city line at Dorchester way, including the construction of a storm sewer, catch basins and connections for the drainage thereof, including as may be necessary, the grading of approaches on streets affected thereby and sinking of exploratory test holes, letting a contract or contracts therefor, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby, and providing, further, for the payment of the city's share thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Sussex avenue, from Woodbourne avenue to the city line at Dorchester way, be graded, paved and curbed, and a storm sewer, catch basins and connections constructed for the drainage thereof, and that, as may be necessary, approaches be graded on streets affected thereby and exploratory test holes be sunk.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading, paving and curbing of said street between said points including the construction of a storm sewer, catch basins and connections for the drainage thereof, including, as may be necessary, the grading of said approaches and sinking of exploratory test holes; and to award the contract or contracts therefor to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders, the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said acts of Assembly and ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of $30,000.00, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the city's share thereof shall be chargeable to and payable from Bond Fund No. 293, Street Bonds, 1928.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

NOTICE is hereby given that the following ordinance was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on June 27, 1932, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said city, without petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 1100.

AN ORDINANCE—Widening Perrott avenue, in the Twenty-seventh Ward, City of Pittsburgh, from California avenue to the south line of the Mike Perret Plan of Lots, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Perrott avenue, in the Twenty-seventh Ward, City of Pittsburgh, from California avenue to the south line of the Mike Perret Plan of Lots, be and the same is hereby widened to a uniform width of 50.0 feet by taking for public use for highway purposes all of the following described property, to-wit:

All of that certain 5.0 foot reserved strip along the west line of the Mike Perret Plan of Lots, of record in the Recorder's office of Allegheny County, Volume 13, page 173, extending from California avenue to the south line of said plan of lots.

SECTION 2. The Department of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said Perrott avenue, in the Twenty-seventh Ward, of the City of Pittsburgh, from California avenue to the south line of the Mike Perret Plan of Lots, to be widened in conformity with provisions of Section 1 of this ordinance.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Chance Remark Puts Sarah On Guard Against Her Former Sweetheart

CHAPTER XXVII.

Dwight drove them down himself in his small open car. There was another man with him, a polo player. Lynn found herself in the front seat with Dwight, the polo gentleman, politely bored, with Sarah in the back. It was a warm day and the Long Island roads were crowded with cars, and dusty.

"I hope you brought a bathing suit," said Dwight.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty clerk in the Sea Coast Bank and Trust Company, loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents. They cannot marry on Tom's salary, so Lynn plans to hold her position. She learns, however, that the bank does not want married women. She seeks the aid of David Dwight, prominent lawyer, whom she met through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Dwight had been Sarah's sweetheart years before, but gave her up to marry wealth. David, attracted by Lynn, offers her a position, but due to Tom's objection, Lynn rejects it. Later, Tom informs Lynn he has an opportunity to become rich by taking advantage of secret information relative to the bank's merger and buying stock. Lynn disapproves on the ground that it is dishonest and Tom reluctantly promises not to speculate. Shortly after, Tom is offered a position at a radio station. Anxious to tell Lynn, he asks if he might call only to learn that she is going away for the week-end with Sarah. Lynn neglects to mention that Dwight will be their host.

Now Go On

She assured him that she had. He drove well, effortlessly. He was hatless and the faint wind stirred by their passage ruffled his thick gray hair.

"I'm glad you came," he told her. "I was afraid that young man of yours wouldn't let you."

"He hasn't anything to say about it."

"No? And he hadn't anything to say about the job I offered you, either?"

She was silent a moment; then she replied, "Of course not," without conviction.

Dwight laughed. "What a poor witness you'd make!" he mocked her. "I could tie you into knots on the stand. Of course—yes. Of course he said, 'I'd rather have you starve than work for that old reprobate!' "

"He didn't say anything of the kind!"

"Well, perhaps he didn't put it quite so strongly. But whatever he said, he was right," agreed Dwight cheerfully. "I thought it over myself, afterwards. I was ready to stand by my bargain, of course, but I realized that you are entirely too distracting to make a good amanuensis."

SARAH ANGERED

He had never spoken to her in that way before, lightly, caressingly. She rather liked it; but was warned.

She said, with equal lightness, "Well, you needn't worry, need you, as the distraction never materialized?"

"I do worry," he said, leaning nearer.

In the back seat the polo player, by way of making idle conversation with Sarah, growled, "Looks like old David was making a play for the youngster. What did you say her name was?"

Sarah, her heart tightening, replied, "Lynn Harding. She's my goddaughter."

"Bet Dave would like to be her godfather," said the polo player. "Looks as if he were offering her about half of his kingdom this minute."

Sarah spoke of the scenery, but she was not happy.

Was it possible that David Dwight's kindness to Lynn meant—anything?

It wasn't possible. Surely he owed her, Sarah, too much. What did he owe her, exactly? A little belated loyalty, perhaps; certainly, a sense of decency. She felt herself flushing with anger.

David liked pretty girls. She'd always known that. But Lynn!

PUT ON GUARD

No, he wouldn't, he couldn't, he dared not use her, Sarah, as a screen, as a convenience. Besides, Lynn had no interest in him. For the first time Sarah felt a definite gratitude to Tom Shepard for loving Lynn; for being loved by her.

Why had she been so blind—if she had been blind? Was it because she saw David Dwight through the eyes of 20 years ago? Saw him, perhaps, without love but still with illusion? He might do as he wished, possess a hundred women, cast them aside, and she would still regard him with condoning eyes.

He wouldn't do that to her; he wouldn't tamper with Lynn's happiness. Thus she reassured herself. But the chance remark had put her on her guard.

Eventually they came to the gateposts of Dwight's property and drew up before the house. Lynn took a deep breath.

"Glad you like it," said Dwight. "I had an idea it would be becoming to you when I built it."

She was unwary enough to remind him. "But you didn't know me then."

"I knew I was going to know you."

She flushed as she stepped out of the car.

SARAH'S FIRST VISIT

The house was in the American farmhouse style. Part of it was quite old. It was shingled, painted white; it had blinds that were neither green nor blue, but a faded, mellow mixture of both. There were wide verandas and windows, and all about it were gardens, and an orchard ran down to the blue water.

They went between low hedges of box to the open door, which boasted a fanlight of great beauty. The door opened directly upon a wide, long living room, with furniture which had achieved the right look of semi-shabbiness combined with beauty and stability. There was an enormous fireplace, and there were many flowers. The stairs leading upward were slender and polished.

Sarah and Lynn had connecting rooms, each with a bath. They looked on flowers and trees and water.

"I've never been in a lovelier house," said Lynn, watching Sarah unpack. "What'll I wear?"

"He doesn't go in for formality," Sarah told her vaguely. "Sports things, I guess. There will be people for dinner. We'll change then. Yes, the house is lovely. Not, however, what I would have expected of David."

"You've never been here before?" Lynn asked her.

"No." Sarah realized with a start and with a return of warning that she never had been here before. Yet David had had the place — how long? — five years. Once he'd had a place in Maryland. She remembered that, but she had never been asked here. She'd seen him all these years, off and on. Luncheon, dinner, a play, parties. But he had never—

Why had he—now?

A little later Lynn and Sarah went downstairs.

PLAY TENNIS

Lynn wore a belted tennis frock of yellow silk, low in the back, higher in the front, sleeveless. She had brushed her hair until it shone; the black arrow was pointed upon her forehead.

Dwight and the polo player waited for them. "There are other people coming," Dwight said casually. "They'll turn up before tea. How about some tennis?" he asked Lynn.

She said doubtfully that it had been ages since she had played; she'd probably make a mess of it.

There were rackets in the cupboard under the stairs. Dwight led the way to the court.

"Never saw the sense of tennis," said the polo player, striding beside Sarah. "Too strenuous.."

The court was on a rise of ground overlooking the water. The high backstops were tapestried in late ramblers; there was a four-foot bed of perennials round three sides. There were painted metal chairs, umbrellas. It had taken them only two hours to run down; it was not more than 4 o'clock now.

Dwight beat Lynn, not too easily. She played a good game. They played two sets, Sarah and the polo player—whose name was Travis—watching.

"I like beating you — by a slight margin," Dwight told Lynn as they left the court and went to join their audience.

Lynn said, "You took an unfair advantage of me. I haven't played in so long. Do you play a lot?"

A SUPERSTITION

"Now and then. Indoor squash; have to keep fit," he told her, and added, dropping down at her feet on the grass, "I had thought it would be a love set, but you fooled me. Later, perhaps, you'll take your revenge."

Now he had meant nothing by that, of course. A natural remark. But she did not reply.

He lay propped on an elbow. There were his little piers, his swimming dock just below and the speed boat, at anchor; over there, the vegetable gardens, the farmer's cottage, the garage.

"Rather lovely, I think," he said. "I like it."

"Has it a name?" she wanted to know.

Lynn and Dwight rested after the game.

"No. Names annoy me. I never named it; I never shall. I have a superstition about naming places."

His eyes flickered toward Sarah. Sarah, sitting stiffly, very tailored, very correct, was unwelcomingly conscious of the ghost of delight which never failed to stir her when she knew that David Dwight was, if fleetly, remembering. The Maryland place had had a name long before Dwight bought it, for the proverbial song. The Maryland place, eight acres and a ramshackle house, had been called, sentimentally, "Heartsease."

It was at Heartsease that they had once stayed, far from all the world; at Heartsease they had parted, as lovers...

"Why don't you call it 'Nonesuch'—wasn't there a house once built for a queen?" asked Lynn, hazy on history.

"They never found its trace," said David. " 'Nonesuch?' That has a melancholy sound, but sweetly secret."

Travis yawned. "When do we get tea? And I hope it isn't tea!" he added.

A horn honked dimly.

"That's the Carters," Dwight said and got to his feet, "and the host not there. Hurry!" He slipped a hand under Lynn's arm, urging her forward. "Bet I beat you to the house," he challenged.

The others followed slowly.

"You'd think he was twenty," Travis said in grudging admiration. "I couldn't run like that from a fire!"

But Lynn reached the winding walk first. There was a sports roadster in front of the door, and beside it a tall, languid man and a pretty woman, the Collin Carters, of New York, Paris, Palm Beach, Newport.

Now the house party was complete. They went indoors and, while the Carters vanished stairward, composed themselves to wait for tea. Tea was—tea, to Travis' disgust; but it was also thin tomato sandwiches and caviar on crisp crackers; and it was likewise cocktails and highballs, and Travis brightened.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Here's big news for every boy and girl of the Junior Komic Club who reads the color comic section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. News that means more fun out of the comics and more fun during play hours!

Beginning tomorrow the Sunday Sun-Telegraph will print in the color comic section every week a lot of LUCKY BUCKS, the new play money.

LUCKY BUCKS will be printed in denominations of 1, 2, 5 and 10 bucks. Each bill will have a different picture on it—instead of the pictures of George Washington or Abraham Lincoln as on real money, the play money will show pictures of the favorite comic characters—Popeye, Barney Google, Jiggs, the Katzenjammer Kids and the rest; and instead of being green and black only, the play money will be printed in all the colors of the rainbow.

IN COMIC SECTION

They'll be in the color comic section so every child can help himself to all there are, then come back for more in the weeks to follow. They cost nothing—just simply cut them out. They can be used in a hundred ways.

LUCKY BUCKS are the coin of playland. They take the place of pins, buttons and other tokens that have been used ever since Hector was a pup for rides on the other fellow's bike and for admission to the neighborhood circuses, shows and ball games.

Giving boys and girls LUCKY BUCKS with the comic section each week was the idea of E. C. Segar, the clever cartoonist, who draws famous old POPEYE. Who could turn down an idea like that when it would mean so much fun for the millions of youngsters who laugh at the comics every week?

All the cartoonists who draw the famous color comics in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph have joined to help Segar turn out enough LUCKY BUCKS to meet the demand for them.

Be sure to cut them out of the color comic page! When they've been clipped they can be carried around in a wallet, or a rubber band can be put around them to make them appear like a real "bank roll." Watch for them tomorrow in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Perhaps, later, at the Warner theaters you may be able to use "Lucky Bucks" for money at the ticket window when you attend the Junior Komic Club meeting.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Belmar—Albert Kirby.
Enright—Walter Haught.
Etna-Harris—Roy Truver, Albramovic Williams.
Manor—Selman Veuger, Joseph Eger, William Jones III.
Plaza—Olive Brown.
Rowland—Raymond Allen, Frank Rossi, Allen Headlee.
South Hills—William Ehrig, Walter Larson, Alice Powers.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

A word to young people.

You glory in telling what you will do when you are 21.

You will be "your own boss."

You puff with pride and youthful arrogance as you mention others you know who are "of age" now and so have taken things in their own hands.

The glances you fling about you as you let out these choice morsels of "warning of times to come" might be amusing if not so pitifully crude.

If you should follow your own impulses entirely and did get into serious trouble through your lack of judgment, what would you do?

You would need a friend, wouldn't you?

Do you want to alienate your best friends, your father and your mother, by your really rude remarks?

If you are really fit and fitted to take up life's responsibilities you would be humble and desirous of learning the best way to take.

That is, you would unless you are lacking in brains.

You wouldn't make such an admission, will you?

WHO'S WHO IN THE OLYMPIC GAMES

As the time for the Olympic Games draws nigh it is well for us to devote a little more attention to the athletes who will represent America in contests of skill and endurance. As the athletes march around the arena none will receive more cheers than the team that will represent America in the cuspidor marksmanship. These athletes were picked from a Senate committee, and each one of them spent weeks training behind locked doors in Washington, D. C. They use the full head swing style, with crossed knees. New records will doubtless be made both in accuracy and distance, due to the great improvements in removable bridgework.

Rate Cut Inevitable

Duquesne Light Merely Saving Itself Money by Prolonging Negotiations.

The Duquesne Light Company should erect a statue to the Roman dictator, Fabius. The officials of the organization appear to hold his policies in such high regard that proper honors should be shown him. Fabius, if you recall your ancient history, believed that nothing should be done today if it could be put off until tomorrow. Instead of "dictator," Fabius became known as "cunctator," the delayer. Duquesne Light follows his strategy in the rate case.

The large profits gleaned from the sale of electricity here, the new attitude of the Public Service Commission, the stand taken by City Council, and the protests of consumers make substantial reductions in charges to residential customers only a matter of time. Duquesne Light Company officials realize this. But they are drawing out the rate negotiations as long as possible by making only trivial concessions.

The Light Company is saving itself a substantial sum of money each month by delaying the inevitable adjustment of its residential rates. Fair treatment of the public would be possible if the company would make an arrangement to give refunds to customers when a rate agreement finally is reached.

The Civil Service Commission should take a definite stand against destruction of the morale of the police and fire departments.. Mayor Kline, under the pretense of economy, has been paying off political scores by dismissing men who have not supported him. The commission was formed to prevent this abuse of the Mayor's powers. Its duty in the case is clear.

The Legislature, now in special session to provide unemployment relief, is facing a difficult problem, but the present emergency is so great that factional differences should be buried and members should make every effort to provide adequate aid for the needy. They should not waste time. They should take action promptly.

Inspection of foods is important to public health, but it is foolish to waste money by needless duplication of work. Civic groups have discovered that the state has an adequate staff to insure thorough inspection of foods and that this city has a large staff doing the same work. Two forces are not necessary.

Pittsburgh's attractiveness as a convention city has again been recognized, this time by the Baptist Young People's Union, which, at its national assembly in St. Paul, chose our city for its 1934 meeting. To have a body of such earnest young people in our midst should prove to be a matter for self-congratulation.

A list of approximately 150 reasons for setting aside the verdicts in the cases of Mayor Charles H. Kline and B. L. Succop, fired by Kline for alleged irregularity in the office of Director of Supplies in the Kline administration, have been sent to Judge Finletter, of Philadelphia, who presided at the trial of the cases in Butler. For Succop there are 117 reasons and the rest are for His Honor. There is at least volume, if not weight, in such argument.

Two students of the department of hotel management, Cornell University, are getting practical experience by juggling heavy bags of flour, tossing sides of beeves, assigning guests to rooms, etc., in Pittsburgh hotels, and will get experience in everything pertaining to hotel work before they are through. Learning the "ropes," we assume, will include service at the cigar counter.

Rabbits eating gardens have caused the making of a recommendation that the state restriction on killing these game rodents be removed temporarily. Possibly garden owners think it would be only justice to eat bunnies that eat gardens.

Franklin Council has decided to keep hands off in the matter of Sunday movie shows in that town, and has voted down an ordinance for local restriction, leaving the problem up to enforcers of the law of 1794. This is a matter for state-wide legislation, instead of local, and we feel that it will not be long before all cities in the state can have harmless Sunday amusements—legally.

Pictures of Roosevelt and Garner, the Democrat standard bearers who will be the most discussed men in the country between now and November, will be featured in the rotogravure section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Both portraits are excellent studies suitable for framing.

*The man who had himself buried, and left a peep*hole through which he could be observed by money-contributing curious people, revealed inventiveness, anyway, in devising a new kind of a show.

Plans are being made for the reopening of the Edgar Thomson plant of the Carnegie Steel Company in Braddock, an order for 20,000 tons of steel rails placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad being the reason. Work is expected to be resumed early in August. It does no harm to hope, at least, that this will be a kindling of the fire of prosperity. In any event, it is the best news Braddock has heard in some time.

Fifty Plymouth and Chevrolet fully equipped sedans are to be given away to the winners of the Jig-Saw Presidential Game. Details of the contest will be explained in tomorrow's Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

It is a fine thing to note that summer fresh-air camps are opening to give under-privileged children and poor mothers opportunity for outings, recreation and solid nourishment. It is a matter not only of present relief, but of fortification against future developments if misfortune should continue.

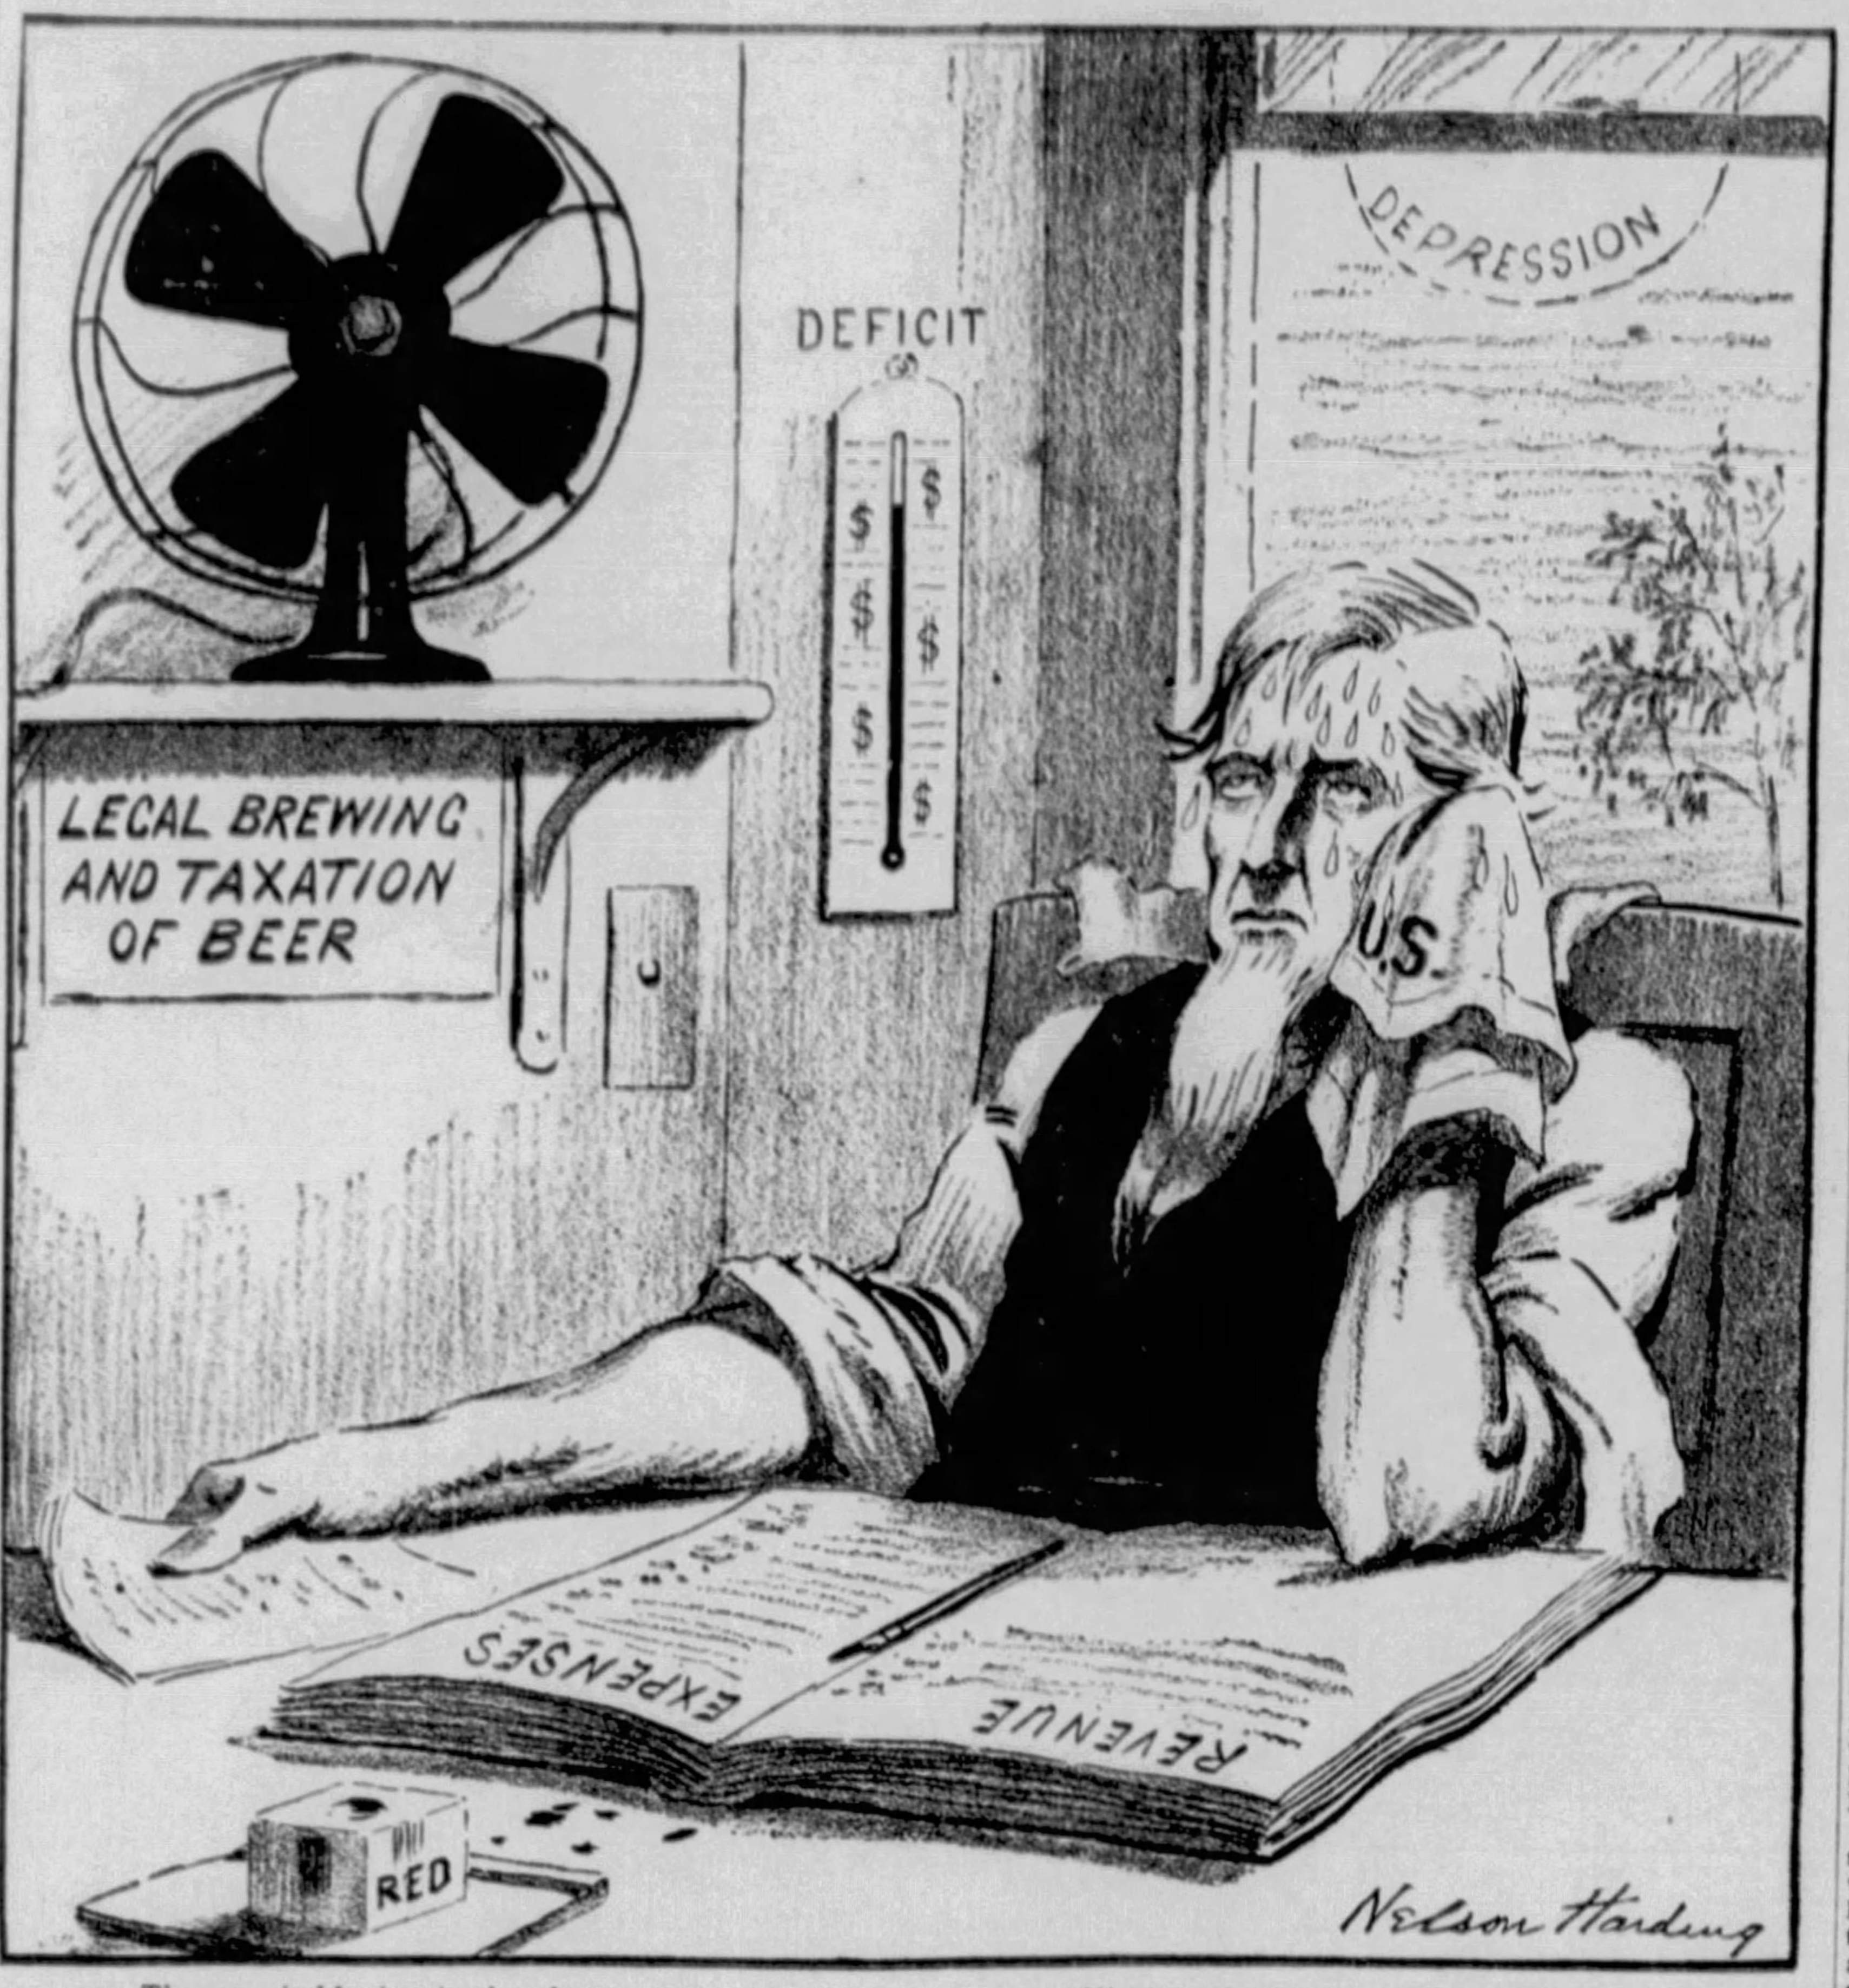
SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

Start the Fan

By Nelson Harding



The sun is blazing in the sky,
The mercury is climbing high,
There is no stirring of the air,
As Uncle swelters in his chair.

His face is red, and dripping wet,
He suffers from the heat, and yet
A cooling fan, at his command,
Stands idle there, so close at hand.

Marry-Go-Round

Lovers—and Others

Never decide that a man's love is serious just because he humors and flatters you; wait until he begins to bully and "reform" you.

* * *

Man is beginning to get "equal rights," at last. It has reached the point where he can boast about the proposals of marriage he turned down during the summer, just as haughtily as a girl used to.

* * *

A modern man's notion of a born pessimist is a youth who cheerfully dries the dishes for his mother, on the theory that, some day, he'll have to do it for some other woman, anyway.

I DON'T LIKE TH' THINGS YOU'VE BEEN DOING!

The man who sends you the handsomest wedding-gift is usually the old-flame who "got away"—and is grateful; the one who really loved you hasn't the heart to celebrate.

* * *

This may be the age of youth. But a widow with one good eye can still see the way to the softest spot in a man's heart better than a debutante with two beautiful orbs.

* * *

Good breeding is what enables a man to offer another man a cigaret, when he yearns to punch him in the eye—and a woman to keep smiling and pouring the tea when she wants to scream.

CIGARETTE, OL' MAN?

Many a modern girl is getting pretty tired of having to leave the hall light burning and the key under the mat for Dad and Mother.

* * *

When a man passes 49, his wife heaves a sigh of relief at the thought that he has reached the end of all his boyish follies. Later, she begins to wonder WHICH end.

* * *

It's hard to realize that there is a whole generation of young men to whom a kiss without the lip-stick flavor would seem "unnatural."

Isn't It So?

Some friends, like some teeth, are false.

The world may owe everyone a living, but try to collect it.

Some motorists speed like the devil to work, and slow up like the devil after they get there.

Many a woman would turn in her husband for a new model if she could get anything down on him.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 9.—Pardon the wild gleam, scratched cheek and torn nails, but I've been repairing the hall clock. It came out of a Second avenue auction room and has stood in the back hall since, acting perfectly ridiculous. It isn't a cuckoo clock, but might as well be.

Something, indeed about everything you can think up, happened to it the third day. When it was 10 o'clock it would strike 11. And at 8 p. m. it would skip, tra, la, forward two hours, tick tock awhile, give out a buzz and the hands would begin to twirl. Hold 'em Yale!

When company came and we would run out of things to do we'd all go out and watch the clock. And wise crack no end. Every once in a while the Sealyham, who sleeps in the back until he learns a few manners, would bark madly. And we'd all know the clock was putting on an act.

This has been going on for almost a year, come autumn, and has been the talk of the neighborhood. In fact at the opera, morning musicals and afternoon Delphians, I was pointed in sly whispers as the idiot who owned the clown clock. They didn't know half.

That gaunt old ticker has come within an inch of breaking up an otherwise happy home. Every time I would suggest giving it to the Bob Brinkerhoffs or tossing it in the ash can my wife would plead for just one more chance. You'd think there was something between them.

"Clocks," she would philosophize, "are a good deal like human beings. They'll be erratic all of a sudden and just as suddenly settle down and run smoothly for years." After which she would look at me and for some reason or other I'd blaze red. Or as Walter Catlett says "blood the cheek."

* * *

Once a week I'd patiently wind it with a big brass key and hope for the best. But no dice. Not a week passed that it didn't offer something entirely new. Toward the last, instead of striking a rich, clear tone, it would gasp like a calico pony with the heaves. Is that silly or not? And finally one midnight it gave out a wierd bellow and ticked its last.

* * *

At intervals I'd sneak out to look it over, standing rather expectantly as though expecting it to say "Boo" or for the pendulum to swing out and whack me right over the head. Finally I got tired of being bluffed by a clock, so this morning I decided to delve into its innards and see what I could see. I laid it out flat on the workshop floor and removed its face. I got this far in my experimentations when my wife popped in with two ladies. "The boy friend," one wise cracked, "has joined the Fix Your Clock Movement." As dignified as I could in a squat I bowed to the ladies and replied distinctly: "It would please me enormously if I could be left alone a little while." To which my wife responded: "The horological wizard prefers solitude.

* * *

Back in our clock. Drag up a sofa and make yourself comfortable. There's hell's work a-brewing, podner! Having lifted the face, I proceeded to poke the first or index finger into what for a better name can be called the gazinkus. There was a hiss like that of a young rattler and a drop of blood oozed out of my finger end. So that was it! A nest of snakes. Harry, the whisky and put my feet above my head. What no snakes? Well something bit me. Maybe a spider. Anyway, this whis-glug-glug—key is dandy for spider stings. You say my finger touched the point of a broken spring? Why didn't you tell me that in the first place? Here I've gone and drunk all that whisky. Now you see. I'm pie-eyed. Gimme that whithle—I mean that chiselth. Whatever I mean hand it to me. I'll fix the dang thing.

* * *

You see, Harry, old boy, old boy—by the way you can have my full dress suit—the first law of mechanics isth, O, I can't fink of the word. It's shorta teshical I mean teckniful. T-e-c-h-n-i-c-a-l. Don't stand there grinning. I suppose you can say c-r-i-m-i-n-a-l, s-y-n-d-i-c-a-l-i-s-m real fash. Hand me the ploeers, I mean plyers. I'm going to disembowel a clock. See, you twist this gadget. B-r-r-t! What happened? I came in 'here wearing pajamas. Now look.

* * *

There's dynamite in that clock. It exploded. And what I mean! Did it give me the works? Comb that spring and those hooduses out of my hair. Also hand me another drink. A big snort. That's it. Do I feel swell. Bring on the city hall clock. Bring on the Rocky Mountains.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I'd like to see your face as you read this letter. At first you're going to be a bit indifferent; then a strange, self-conscious look will creep into your eyes, as though some one had discovered a secret which you had closely guarded, and presently you'll be whispering to yourself, "But that's just the way I feel, too!"—which is exactly the point I wish to impress on Rita when I answer her letter.

"Dear Elsie:

"All my life I have been unhappy, and yet everyone thinks I have everything to make me happy. I have—in OUTSIDE things. I have a nice home, loving parents and plenty of money, so I do not have to work. We're not rich, but I can go nearly anywhere I want to, and have anything I need. Yet I am MISERABLE!

"I watch other people and envy them until I am simply sick. Nearly all the people I know seem so steady and sure of themselves. They always want the same things and think the same things.

"But I never feel the same two minutes in succession! Outside I am a quiet, bashful, rather nervous girl, and inside I am just BOILING. One minute I am happy, the next I am sad. I am kind and hateful, brave and cowardly, good and bad, all in the space of an hour.

"That isn't all. I have times when I seem to be inhabited by a MONSTER—when I think sly, horrible thoughts, unclean thoughts. And afterwards I could kill myself, I hate myself so.

"Isn't there any way in which I can become like other people, Elsie? Won't I ever know true, deep peace?

"RITA."

Yes, there is a way, Rita, and the beginning of that way is to realize that YOU ARE LIKE OTHER PEOPLE RIGHT NOW!

Those "steady, sure" people you envy so are quite as much beset with their inner selves as you are. The "hardest-boiled" male often feels like a frightened 6-year-old. The meekest little female frequently harbors impulses that would do justice to a lady hyena.

Of course, you've read Stevenson's remarkable story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. We all have Mr. Hydes in our spirits—many of them.

Get that fact in your mind firmly. Remember it whenever you start to envy some one who seems calmer and stronger. Then remember the reason for that seeming calmness and strength. What is that reason? It's this:

Out of all the things these people MIGHT HAVE BEEN, they have selected one definite thing which THEY INTEND TO BE. They have decided to be socially suave, industrially powerful, scholarly, efficient, humorous or dignified—whatever may appeal to them as the ideal character; AND THEY'RE KEEPING THAT ONE GOAL IN SIGHT. They're AIMING SOMEWHERE.

That's the difference between such people and you, Rita. You're waiting to be driven by your inner impulses; they, on the other hand, are doing the driving.

There's the whole secret of power and peace, Rita. Stop saying that you're "different." It's a cowardly alibi, when you once know the truth.

Start in to do to yourself what every son or daughter of Adam has had to do. It won't be any harder for you than it is for every one else? GET AN AIM AND STICK TO IT.

Text for Today To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.—I. Corinthians, ix:22.

As in the Days Of Jackson

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The action of Roosevelt in writing his acceptance speech in a speeding plane and matching his views with those of the party platform while facing the convention that named him and wrote the resolutions is making an impression on the country. Courage, poise, frankness are thus revealed in the man. A coward or a double-dealer would have had to ponder days over each phrase in an acceptance speech to give it the Talleyrand touch.

Senator Johnson expresses the thought in the minds of the people when he says about Roosevelt's immediate action:

"What an improvement is this innovation over the old tradition where a candidate sits like a sphinx for weeks scratching out weasel words and ambiguous phrases with duplex and doubtful meanings that may be read in any fashion by any person or group."

If Mr. Hoover keeps faith with the Mr. Hoover of the Republican convention, he is struggling over these duplex and doubtful meanings in the laborious preparation of a speech "that may be read in any fashion by any person or group."

* * *

Rather Be Roosevelt Than His Foes

Very early, Americans should begin to analyze in their own minds the meaning of the insinuations that Roosevelt is not "quite safe."

First they should trace this absurdity to its source; for that will determine who is not "safe" with him in power. It will be found that those responsible for this propaganda are those who have not been safe for the great mass of the American people and for legitimate business enterprise.

In the course of the campaign, with this element in opposition, the Democrats will have to meet that issue and put it directly before the voters. In such a contest we would rather be Roosevelt than his foes in Big Business and High Finance.

If Wall street is out for the scalp of Roosevelt the country will understand that it knows Roosevelt will not be its tool; and the American people do not want any one any more in the presidency who is its tool.

* * *

The Enemy of Crooked Business

No one honestly believes that Roosevelt is a raving radical; no one ever has. Temperamentally, by training, and intellectually he is the friend of legitimate business, whether it be the business of the mart, the farm, or the workingman — whose business is to make a living for his family.

He is the enemy of crooked business—and only that.

And he is the enemy of crooked business because he knows it is the function of organized society to protect the public against pirates on land or sea.

The wreckage of America today has come from too much piracy, banditry, in some high places, and these pirates and bandits are not popular with their victims; and their victims constitute nine-tenths of the American people.

To have this element out in the open against Roosevelt would be almost too good to be true.

But to the extent they are against him they must be forced out into the open; for nothing could better symbolize the paramount issue.

* * *

Andrew Jackson Was 'Unsafe'

Just 100 years ago Andrew Jackson enjoyed the enmity of this element of his day. He had determined upon the protection of the people, and particularly the small business man and farmer, against the highbinders of high finance—for in his day that is precisely what the supporters of Biddle's bank had become.

That made Andrew Jackson "unsafe."

The greater part of the press was then under the domination of the bank. Thus the newspaper propaganda against Jackson was powerful. Thousands of merchants dependent on credit were bulldozed and intimidated. Attempts were made to coerce workingmen by announcements that in the event of Jackson's election, the factory would shut down; and to coerce farmers with advertisements that in the event of Clay's election a stated price would be paid for hogs and a much lower price would be paid should Jackson win.

And Jackson won; and won all the more easily because these enemies played into his hands.

* * *

The Bankers Are Not Among the Idols

That sort of thing cannot be done so successfully this year by the exploiting element.

The bankers are not now among the idols of the people; and legitimate business enterprise can scarcely suffer more than it has at their hands. They have been refused credit under Hoover.

It would be silly to attempt the coercion of labor now—with ten millions already in the streets.

It would be stupid to attempt a deception of the farmer on the prices of his product now since under Hoover the prices have hit bottom and stuck there in the mud.

All that can be done this year for the element that sought to dictate to the people on the presidency in the campaign of a hundred years ago is to convey the impression through a powerful portion of the press that Roosevelt, like Jackson, is "unsafe."

We shall hear much of that—much of it in whispers.

* * *

Will Call for An Analysis

And this will call for an analysis of the meaning of the term.

We may attempt, from time to time, to explain why he is "unsafe" to a certain element whose domination in government to an improper degree has been so tragically "unsafe" to nine-tenths of the people.

These are the people who are primarily responsible for the unprecedented depression of these dark days; these, and their tools in government.

It is high time that America be made "unsafe" for certain methods and practices inspired by human gluttony and greed.

So ripe is the time that no man and no paper has the temerity to stand out in the open and defend this system. It is indefensible.

Roosevelt, like Jefferson, who was "unsafe," and Jackson, who was "unsafe," is "unsafe" only to those whose fraudulent machinations in business and finance have made America "unsafe" for the average man and woman.

* * *

The Road Away From Revolution

There is not an intelligent person today who does not know that these indefensible methods protected by governmental privileges must go; that not only our political institutions, but our social system will go otherwise; that the instrumentalities of organized society must be used in the interest of all the people and not by a few of the people; that social justice and reforms must find their way into laws

Here is the road away from revolution

Mr Hoover stands stubbornly for the status quo; his record discloses an utter incapacity to comprehend the meaning or needs of the times.

Mr. Roosevelt proposes to apply old-established principles to new conditions, and nothing is so safe.

In temperament, training, thinking, he gives assurance that nothing will be "unsafe" under his administration that ought in justice, or decency to be safe in any free society looking to the common good of all.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Underguessed

Oh, I had not a thought
When he stood at my door
That in coming he brought Things undreamed of before!

That the land would grow fair
And my toil would grow sweet
With the light on his hair,
With the tread of his feet!

How was I to divine
When he smiled in my eyes
He would make the day shine,
Make the place Paradise?

Oh, he came to my door,
Just a passer, unknown;
Yet from that hour, no more
Walked my spirit alone.

How was I to forsee
All the gifts he would share,
When he smiled down on me
With the sun in his hair?

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?
